

Deseronto woman celebrates 105 years

How do you live to be 105 years old? Ask Miss Emma Shorey who will reach that age on Friday and she'll give you this answer... "I stayed right away from men", that's what she attributes her ripe old age to. Miss Shorey hasn't given up yet, by a long shot. Every day, she gets up and dressed and puts on all her jewellery. She's interested in everything that's going on, even though she can't hear a lot of it, she's stone deaf now. She came from Newburgh and she is living now at the Quinte Beach Nursing Home in Deseronto. She's a real going concern. "She may be with us for another 10 years at the rate she's going," says Betty Helman who is director of nursing at the Home. "She's better than a lot of our people who are only in their seventies." One of the things Miss Shorey really enjoys is her meals. She's got a good appetite and that may be another key to her secret of longevity.

Bad news for working mothers

There's bad news for working mothers with pre-school children in this...and other...areas in Ontario's 1977-78 Daycare Expansion Program, just made public.

Last year, despite all the stringent cutbacks in social services, Ontario did manage to build 2,585 new day care spaces.

Not even one-tenth of that number will be added this year.

There will be only one new project, with space for 15 children. And, under the regular capital program, eight daycare centres will add space for 200 additional children. That's a total of only 215 new spaces across the whole province.

In this area, the situation was bleak already.

Pictou, Nanawee and Deseronto have NO Provincial daycare centres. There is one on the Tyendinaga Reserve.

"Under the Ontario Daycare Program, a municipality, a charitable organization, a parent co-op, an Indian band can make a request for funds to set up a full daycare program for preschoolers, 2 to 5 years old," says Gerry Duda of the Belleville office of the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services. "If the request is approved the Province pays up to 80% of operating costs. Parents pay according to a means test. We take the family income into account, the living expenses, and the debts, etc."

"The other way to set up a daycare centre is to operate it without public money. A private operator can set one up," Duda said. "Whichever way it is done, you need an Ontario licence and must meet specifications for such things as space and zoning."

In Deseronto, there was a centre operating under a Federal LIP grant, which had to close down several months ago, because no more funds were forthcoming.

In Pictou, there is activity now for a private day care centre, hopefully funded by the Federal Government. The people working on the project hope to set it up through a Canada Works Program, and estimate that costs to parents would be about $30 a week, per child.

Where does a bull go when he decides to go out for a stroll and there's no china shop to browse through? This fellow was snapped by our previous editor, Mark Weidmark, jogging along Highway 2 between Nanawee and Deseronto, holding up traffic until he could be bulldozed into getting back in the field where he belonged.

Referendum fails on first vote

Although the majority of those voting Saturday on the referendum concerning a conditional and qualified surrender of approximately 124-acres of Tyendinaga Indian Reserve property, were in favour, the referendum did not carry, Elton Brant, Band Administrator reports.

There were 554 registered voters of whom 299 cast their votes. Twelve ballots were spoiled, 163 were in favour and 124 against.

"To carry on the first vote, 277 votes in favour would have been necessary," Mr. Brant said.

He was not able to say whether a second vote would be taken as this would be up to council to decide.

The surrender of the 124 acres to the Crown would pave the way for the surrendered land to be sold and patented to the present lessees or occupants.

Terms of the proposed surrender were that the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development would purchase 520 acres to add to the Reserve.

Legion Honours Awards presented

The Second Annual Honours and Awards Supper, held by Branch 280, Royal Canadian Legion Deseronto, on Friday evening, was a colourful and happy occasion.

"This is our way of saying thank you to members for their service to our organization," Ross Carron, president, told the more than 200 guests.

From the piping in of the head table guests to the last of the presentations, the evening's events were carried out with military precision and ceremony.

"Our membership is increasing but we need workers in smaller branches," Dave Capperault, immediate past president of Ontario Provincial Command, and guest speaker, said. "The Legion has over 50 years of service. We have to work at it so we can truly say this country in which we live and for which they died is truly worthy of the sacrifice they made."

He reported to the members the stand taken on separatism at the annual convention. "Our organization has unanimously rededicated itself to a United Canada."

Life memberships were presented by James Coulton, Deputy District Commander, District F, to Art Hill, Art Herben, Dr. McVicker (a life pin), Priscilla Whidden and Ada Claus (accepted by Shirley Claus).

Certificates of merit went to Charles Hearn, Marvin Brooks, Laverne Hill, Marg Erskine and Priscilla Whidden. Presentations were made by Al Fraser and Keith Brooks.

Jack Rashotte, honours and awards chairman and legislative chairman of Zone F3 and district poppy chairman of District F presented past officers' medals (bars) to: Dr. D. McVicker, past president medal and bar; Vivian Brant, past president medal; Edna Hearn, medal (executive bar); Bill Gillot, medal (sergeant at arms bar); George Tremp, medal (executive bar); Ray Sweet, second vice president bar.

A special presentation was made to Rev. John Fletcher by past padre Rev. Frank Bell.

Dave Johnston of Wellington got his goat on Saturday. Mr. Johnston was one of the many goat fanciers who turned out for the Annual Starlight Sale, organized by the Eastern Group of the Ontario Dairy Goat Society. He purchased this French Alpine doe due to add to his herd. The sale features the best of Ontario's dairy goats, the cream of the crop. Prices ranged from $240 to $600. The animals were sold by auction at Wooler.

EDITORIAL

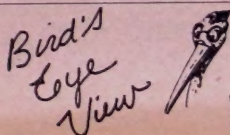

This is the time of year when mailboxes are beginning to bulge with what-to-give-for-Christmas ideas.

And, from the look of the flyers, you'd never guess there was an energy crisis. A TV-powered tennis game for the man who has everything to play from his armchair...or a tight-money situation (diamonds, sterling for m'lady)...or the possibility that a lot of people, even here in Canada, might not have much of a Christmas at all this year.

It's almost sickening, this glut of luxury and abundance dangled in front of us, in view of the facts of unemployment, welfare coffers running dry, no money for insulation programs and the frightening estimates of what it's going to cost us just to keep warm this winter.

Let's take a good look at our Christmas lists this year. If you do know someone who has everything and you have any money, why rack your brains trying to think of something new to give them...give it to some needy kid who still believes in Santa Claus instead.

by Quille S.
Greenbush

Well, Hallowe'en come and went and we ain't had no tricks at all played on us this year. Fact we hardly had no kids come to the door, being so far out from town. Nowadays their dads drives them out to Picton where they can get more treats than they can walking round the country roads. Nope, Hallowe'en ain't what she was. Seems to me there's a sight too many treats and not enough tricks, and most of the tricks that the younguns do come up with are more trouble than fun.

Anyways, we had a few of the neighbour children at the door, and one or two passing by on their way to town, collecting loot on the way. Seen some new costumes this year, different from what we had. Space men and super men as well as the old witches and goblins. Still ain't rightly figured out how come these her town councils can change the date for Hallowe'en. Seems to me that All Hallow's Eve is always right before All Saints day, and that were always November first - it ain't no moveable feast. Seems like changing the date of Christmas to me. Still I guess changing times bring changing dates.

Another thing I ain't got figured out is what all this fuss about microphones in the Houses of Parliament and the Mounties checking up on them Quebec politicians is all about. Figger that the only ones as don't know politics is a game is them as plays her. They must be too busy politicking to read all these thriller books about spies and such, like the rest of us. Stands to reason, if'n you've read them books and know what's what in the political world, they should oughter expect that sort of goings on, even if it ain't right neighbourly.

Anyways, I give up on all that sort of thing years ago - somebody called me a social drop out the other day. Said the ancient greeks would of called me a idiot. Can't say I thought too well of that. I kind of like sitting on the sidelines now. Gives me a sense of perspective.

Talk about a sense of perspective, You can always find a new way to look at an old thing. Come across a whole bunch of town folk in my neighbour's back pasture the other day. I watched 'em for a while to see what all they was up to. I seen them picking up cow flops and putting them in pails. Well, apart from them being trespassers and all, I wanted to know what in tarnation they was doing, so I goes over for a word with them. Turns out they wanted them cow flops for their compost heap in town. One of them even told me that I should put the real dry ones on the fire to give it a real pretty colour in the flames.

Seems no matter how long I'm around this old world, there's always something new to learn. You ever hear of burning cow flops? Can't see my Elma letting me try it anyhow, but I'd kind of like to see if it does make pretty colours, and if'n they're pretty enough to make up for the stink - wouldn't you Point Traverse light-house must be one of the most photographed, sketched and painted in the country. The building now belongs to the Ontario Federation of Naturalists who use it as a bird watching station.

Shannonville taxes

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

In answer to your column in the Scanner entitled "Who pays Shannonville School Taxes": After reading your article in the paper I felt it was my duty to straighten you out on a few things.

Number one, I live in Shannonville and I pay my township and also my school taxes each and every year and many other people also.

I have no children going to school which possible I should be exempted from school tax.

Number two is that it is not Shannonville that is on Indian property, it is part of Shannonville.

Many things have come up in your paper in regards to this affair that is misleading myself and many other people like me who live on non-Indian land in Shannonville.

And, at least I have the backbone and the guts to sign my name at the end of my reply.

Alvin McKenzie, Shannonville

EDITOR'S NOTE: We appreciated receiving Mr. McKenzie's letter and the information it contained. It had been difficult to get information about the taxation situation in Shannonville.

The article in question concerned the non-payment of taxes only by those "property owners" on land leased under a 999 year lease from the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte Band. We regret any inconvenience that may have been caused if this was not clear.

Block Parent Plan

To the Editor:

Many may not have heard of the 'Block Parent Plan', as it has just been introduced in some larger towns and cities. Toronto, Belleville, Kingston and Gananoque all have this plan at present.

All members are volunteers, their slogan being 'Join and Care'. Their program provides refuge and help to youngsters in danger, lost, bullied, sick or injured, who can't reach the safety of home.

A Block Parent sign in a window is a signal someone is home to help children and adults in emergencies. Those offering refuge are first screened by Police or some authorized person in your town or city.

Bullied is emphasized as this goes on quite frequently all over our town or any other town or city. This occurs going and coming from school also after school hours.

This situation is getting out of hand. The teachers are not responsible once a child leaves the school yard, so one is supposed to contact the Police. If for one do not like to involve childhood problems with the Police, when it comes to this it seems most distressing, on the other hand, if the Police or Principal of the local school could give a good lecture on this subject also mentioning the language some students use, (this is atrocious to say the least, especially coming from kindergarten and first graders, truly shocking) it might help.

It is a known fact that our crossing guards have to stand and take the filthiest abuse from certain boys and girls that have no idea how to conduct themselves in public. One crossing guard was attacked with stones, sticks and what have you, just this week. How far is this going to go before someone makes an effort to do something to curb it, even if it goes as far as having Police patrol along the main route, or just scouting around the streets in the area once or twice a week, is this too much to ask?

We have a four man police force in this town, I see no reason why they can't come up with something.

No incentive to cut Hydro use

To the Editor:

Your article on windmills and solar power was interesting and worth a chuckle and a thought.

The Honourable James Taylor is long on photographs and short on facts. Could you ask him how he can be so concerned with saving energy when Ontario Hydro blatantly discourages us from using less electricity?

I enclose the latest Ontario Hydro rate sheet. You will see that if I reduce my consumption of electricity from 1000 KWH per month to 750, then my rates increase from 2.43¢ to 2.6¢! If I further decrease my consumption to 250 KWH per month, then I am rewarded for my frugality by having to pay 6.9¢ for every KWH!

I could accept the higher initial rates if the money was needed to service new and distant farms. But our line paid for itself twenty years ago.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Long (nee Reach)

Will family allowances, pensions be cut?

With all the high-up disclosures about break-ins and other such items jamming the air and print waves recently, some of the less spectacular but just as fundamental disclosures from Capital Hill are being buried away in little corners in the media, where we're not too likely to notice them.

This, for example, which certainly is of interest to all of us.

From Canadian Press - Prime Minister Trudeau appeared to hedge Thursday on whether the government is considering changes that might reduce its spending on family allowances and old-age pensions.

Trudeau was replying to Stanley Knowles, (NDP Winnipeg) who had questioned comments by Public Works Minister, Judd Buchanan who said the government was considering whether allowances and pensions should continue to be paid on a universal basis.

Trudeau said that 'while the government is committed to the principles of family allowances and old-age pensions, we have in the past, and we shall in the future, continue to consider ways in which legislation in all areas can be improved. If there is any way in which we can curtail expenditures and have a better system while abiding by the principles, we shall of course consider it.'

And, if that doesn't clarify the situation for you, better put a strong lock on your pocket book before the Federal Government decides on a break-in of its own.

He also received a first in the Holstein best under class.

FERRY TALE

Once upon a time, there was a good ferry, called the Amherst Islander. It plied its way back and forth across Lake Ontario from the island to the mainland.

All went well until last Thursday, when it ran into thick fog, and ran aground on a shoal about 60 feet from its dock, which, according to Amherst Island Reeve, James Neilson, is located in a very precarious position.

Meanwhile, the old Wolfe Islander took on the servicing across the three-mile channel.

But, like all ferry stories, this one has a happy ending. A tug and barge from Kingston finally freed the ferry and the Province is paying the bills because they subsidize the ferry 100%.

DO-IT-YOURSELF PROJECT

A non-denominational church building, featuring neighbourliness and old-time community spirit, is going up on a park-like seven acre site near Amherstview through the efforts of volunteer workmen. This is the third such endeavour for a young minister, Rev. John Craig who has already done similar work in Portland Township and in the Hay Bay area.

The Amherstview Interesting Years Club, which recently got a $26,097 New Horizons grant from the Provincial government, is using the money to help decorate and furnish the hall when it is finished.

Now there's a happy news item for a change.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

Inmates provided all the labour for a new four-bay garage at Quinte Regional Detention Centre in Napanee, as part of the provincial government's plan to cut costs but at the same time educate inmates.

Inmates have been allowed out during the day to work on various projects such as a clean-up of Springside Park and Superintendent Earl Martin said a newly-formed committee, composed of local businessmen and service club representatives will discuss the possibility of more outside programs.

In a time of high unemployment the program might boomering. If there's no job in the outside world, the ex-inmates might want back in.

HOLD BACK THE TIDE

High costs to ratepayers were the reason for rejection by North Fredericksburgh of the decision to withdraw from the greater Napanee and Area Water Supply and Pollution Control Board.

Besides an increase in taxes, residents joining the system would have had to pay an impost fee of as much as $1,000 for a single family dwelling plus user and frontage fees.

Napanee Deputy-reeve Graham Strong said the system may have to be rescheduled cost-wise to make it easier for people to handle.

The three-way water and sewer board was set up in 1975 to provide services to Napanee, Richmond and North Fredericksburgh.

The board will continue to function and Mr. Strong said North Fredericksburgh will likely get back into the system, if costs can be made more realistic.

No doubt a lot of municipalities will take another look at their dealings with the Provincial Government now that the final count on water costs is in, in Deseronto.

NO WAY TO TREAT GUESTS

Rudeness, slack service, poor quality and run-down quarters are helping damage the national tourism industry.

Canadian Press quotes Federal Industry Minister Jack Horner: "From the mail the department receives, the tourism industry seems to be getting a reputation for being unfriendly, indifferent and sometimes prone to sharp practice."

And, if you treat guests that way once, they're not too likely to come back a second time.

SALT IN THE WOUND

The people of Deseronto who were not able to get Ontario Home Renewal Loans because "provincial funds ran out" will not be happy to know that the Scanner has received not one...but two...copies of a press release announcing that another $699,357 in grants have been allocated and that special arrangements have been made to extend the benefits of the program to the residents of unorganized municipalities in Northern Ontario.

The news release, dated Oct. 28, came from the Minister of Housing John Rhodes.

OUT OF DATE INFO

Parents of children attending South Marysburgh Central Public School in Milford have been lobbying for three years for a gymnasium with proper facilities at the school.

Latest step taken by parents was a presentation to the Prince Edward school board meeting, held at Milford School.

The board has put the gym at the top of its priorities but points out that it needs the approval of the Ministry of Education.

Another subject of complaint at the meeting was the out-of-date information in some of the books used at the school.

"These out of date textbooks are talking of countries that no longer exist, one parent said, "and the children are still being taught countries that existed before the Second World War."

Well, that's another group of taxpayers heard from. Last week's Scanner carried a report of complaints about Lennox and Addington's executive salaries for school board officials.

Maybe it's time we got our educational priorities straightened out. Are we trying to teach kids, or run a high-priced business?

Brian Cowan is traffic safety officer with the Deseronto Police. One of the most rewarding aspects of his work is helping to make sure that children know and obey the safety rules so they won't get hurt in traffic. Halloween can be a particularly hazardous night for young children to be out on the streets. So he made a special trip to the Deseronto Elementary School to pass along some sound advice, cautioning the children against darting out from between parked cars, telling them to use reflective tape or light-coloured costumes, and to make sure, before they cross the street, that the way was clear. Listening to him, with interest, are children from Mrs. W. Knowles grade 1 classroom. A safety measure, carried out by the school, is to have the children from grades 5 and 6 do UNICEF collecting during the afternoon, rather than in the evening when they have a lot of other things on their minds.

Thirsty work for guest piper at Legion.

Blowing up a good tune on the bagpipes makes a man thirsty and Piper Wayne Reid of Napanee was surprised, at the reaction he got when he made a simple request for a glass of water at the Honours and Awards supper held by the Legion in Deseronto on Friday.

He'd waited politely through the opening remarks, the toast to the Queen in tomato juice and the first few mouthfuls of his roast beef dinner before quietly asking a member of the auxiliary, who was helping serve, for his glass of water. She didn't know what to say.

Finally someone else at the table leaned over and told him what the situation was - Deseronto water is not for drinking unless it has been boiled. All ended well. He got a glass of gingerale instead.

Eighteen-year-old Peter Zaban, of Lake on the Mountain Road, driver of the motorcycle in the top photo, was killed Thursday afternoon when the westbound motorcycle crossed into the eastbound lane of County Road 7, west of Picton, and collided with the 1977 Ford pickup truck (bottom photo), driven by Wayne Myatt of Elizabeth Street, Picton. In another traffic accident in the county, on Saturday, Robert Beek of Picton was thrown from his car when it went out of control on a curve on County Road 10. Mr. Beek died the following day in Kingston General Hospital.

HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Moore and their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore of Fort Erie, were visitors at the home of his brother, Mr. Blake Moore and Mrs. Moore. They also called on a sister, Mrs. H. McQueen.

Visitors at the home of Mrs. Lottie Anderson on Sunday afternoon were Dr. Jean Toews and her husband Hank Toews of Toronto. They all went to Kingston, where they called on Dr. Jean's nephew, James Watson of Wa Wa, who is a student at Queen's University.

Last week dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Cummings were his sister Mrs. Myrtle Lloyd and of Port Hope and her daughter, Heida Delyea.

On Monday, October 17, the Amateurs, a choral group of Senior Citizens from Shannonville and area, travelled to Harrowsmith and on to Tamworth for the evening, and entertained the local senior citizens clubs.

Unexpected holiday

Children at Deseronto's Elementary School have a Lombardy poplar tree to thank for an unexpected holiday.

It seems the tree roots had grown right into the sewer pipe and water from the showers just wouldn't go down the drain... but started running down the hall.

'Fortunately, it was clean water,' said principal G.H. Muir, 'and we had it back on by Wednesday, the next day.'

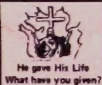

The sewer pipe had been in about five years. It was broken near the junction with the main sewer line.

On Friday, October 21, the Amateurs provided the program for the Masonic Ladies Night banquet in Cantreville where they received most hearty applause.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the same week they took part in the Master Bazaar being held at the Belleville Mall at which time a draw was made, with Nickie Sargent of Deseronto being the winner of the first prize - a money peacock.

The fifth meeting of the Lonsdale 4-H Club was held on October 17 in the Women's Institute Hall. The meeting was called to order with the singing of 'Happy Birthday' to Margaret McGuiness. The roll call was answered by 14 members.

Mary Lou Immerseel read the minutes of the previous meeting. Mrs. Farrell and Mrs. Buxton discussed cereals around the clock ad popular pastas.

library notes

Do you sometimes feel that other people are running your life or that you, yourself, don't seem to be making the best of things? You should read Dr. Wayne W. Dyer's 'Your Erroneous Zones', now available at the library. The new bestseller, 'Madelaina' is also waiting for you.

The library would like to do a Remembrance Day display and would appreciate loans by area veterans of war memorabilia. These articles will be labelled as to donor and returned when the display is over. Please participate; it is such an important aspect of Deseronto's history.

For people interested in the romance of buried treasure, the library has 'The Money Pit' a detailed account of research concerning the mysterious excavations on Oak Island near Nova Scotia's southern coast. 'The Hand of Robin Squires' is a fictional account of what lies behind the mystery.

The children will be charmed by the new Serendipity Press titles the library will be using for the story hour and circulation. The stories and illustrations of such books as 'Captain Smudge' and 'The Dream Tree' are very entertaining.

Be sure to check the magazine table from time to time. The library purchases magazines not on its regular circulation list and places them there. Please suggest periodicals you would like to see the library carry as well.

Juveniles win third game

On Saturday, in Brighton, the Deseronto Juveniles won their third game in a row, defeating Carrying Place by 6 to 3. With only eight players, after 2 minutes of play in the first period, when Dan Thompson, who received a 5 minute fighting penalty, and a game misconduct for being bi-lingual was off the ice

Tom Maracle opened the scoring at 8:08 of the second period, and Rick Brant added the second goal with only 7 seconds left in the period. Things were even the rest of the game, until with 5:41 left in the third, Tom Maracle got his second goal and put Deseronto ahead 4 to 3.

From then on Deseronto never looked back as Tom added his third goal with 1:50 to play, and Dale Loney made it 6 to 3 with only 17 seconds left in the game.

The Juveniles next game will be against Picton at Deseronto on Thursday at 9 p.m.

Close game for Bantams

On Sunday, October 30, the George A. Grant Bantams travelled to Napanee for their first game of the 77-78 season, and lost a very close game 2 to 0 to Napanee.

The Bantams played a very good defensive game, except for the 2 early goals in the first period. From then on the goal tenders Shawn Doyle and Bobby Gordenier stopped all the shots that Napanee had, including a couple of sure goals.

Despite the loss, the George A. Grant Bantams will become a much stronger team with some more practice and games. On Saturday, starting at 7 p.m. the Bantams will play host to the Belleville Bantams.

Pretty nice to have oranges growing right in your kitchen - handy for the breakfast vitamin C. Well, that's what Mrs. M. Doran of 68 Mill Street has growing in her kitchen, but she hasn't tried them with her breakfast yet. She got the root for the tree about five years ago. 'For the first two years it didn't do anything,' she said, 'and then it started.' There are eight oranges on it now. One is three years old and almost ready to come off. Three others came on last year, and this year there are four new little ones, one of them is still green and smooth. The blooms are white, with a pink centre. The tree is now 27 inches high. 'I took one orange off some time ago,' she said, 'but it was all pulp, no seeds, and I didn't eat it.'

Does Deseronto need a Block Parent Program?

From time to time, we get reports of children bullied or frightened by other children on their way to and from school, which we check out with the Deseronto police or the schools.

This week, it was a report of a student hitting a school crossing guard with a stone.

G.H. Muir, principal of the Deseronto Elementary School, confirmed that this had happened.

'I was not aware of it until Constable Brian Cowan came to the school to check with the child concerned,' Mr. Muir said. 'According to the youngster the stone was thrown across the road and happened to hit the guard.'

'But we are concerned. I have every intention of talking to the crossing guards and seeing if there is a need to do anything more to help the situation.'

Now we have received a letter from a concerned citizen who is worried about children being bullied or frightened and is suggesting that a Block Parent Plan be set up in town.

Members of the Block Parent Plan are volunteers, screened by the police, who put a sign in their windows alerting children that someone is home there to help them in an emergency.

Principal Muir said he would be happy to co-operate with such a program. 'When I was principal of the Bayview School in Belleville, I was approached to co-operate with setting up the plan there, and I did.'

The letter to the editor is on page 3.

Gary Thompson, Deseronto, looks determined to win as he faces off against the opposing team.

The Remembrance Day display, in the window of the Deseronto Public Library was impressive. Here, librarian Gloria Greenfield, and Brenda Lawlor put the finishing touches on the military uniform used in the display. Dolls' house reflects life of sixty years ago

Back in 1910, in the German section of Hoboken, New Jersey, life was a very pleasant affair.

The business-minded people were well-to-do, and healthy. They lived in comfortable homes, with servants to help with the work, and their daughters went to private schools staffed, in many instances, by their own aunts.

Seven-year-old Margaret Alexander lived in one of the comfortable, tall brick houses with a number of adult relatives. Although she was an only child, she had lots of school friends and one of their favourite pastimes was playing with an elaborate, wonderful dolls' house, bought for her at F.A. Schwartz in New York.

The dolls' house was a little girl's dream come true. On the outside, it was a three-storey brick, with porches, and dormer windows. Inside were a kitchen, bathroom, living room, den and bedrooms, all furnished in detail, curtains on the windows, pictures on the walls, tiny bolsters on the beds and couches. It was wired, electrically, and it came complete with a family and servants, just like home.

Margaret Alexander grew up, got married and one of her daughters is Janet Lunn who lives on Pleasant Bay near Hillier.

Janet and, later, her daughter Kate enjoyed many happy hours with the dolls' house which is now tucked away in an upstairs room.

Opening the door inside is like looking back 60 years into a nostalgic past.

"My grandfather sent the dolls' house to us back about 1934 or 5 when we lived in New England," Janet recalls. "My sister Ann and I had grand good times with it and sometimes we had bitter fights over it."

Their friends enjoyed the dolls' house too and Janet mentioned that this year she ran into a friend she hadn't seen since childhood. The dolls' house had made such an impression on her that it was one of the first things she asked about.

"When my daughter Kate was nine, my father brought it up to Canada for her," Janet said. "I spent all my spare time that spring fixing it up. I painted the squares on the kitchen floor, painted the roof, glued it and generally put it in order."

A lot of the furniture is the original pieces that came with the house. Some, like the pedestal sink in the bathroom carry the Schwartz label on the back.

"One of my great aunts was a great seamstress," Janet said. "Just look at the tiny stitches on this bolster, and the hand-made curtains at the window."

The doll family members are kept in a continued on page 2

Janet Lunn still delights in showing visitors the doll's house her mother played with more than 60 years ago. She and her sister had the dolls' house when they were little girls in New England and her daughter, Kate, later spent many happy hours playing with it too.

Bloomfield parent protests religious teaching in school

Back in 1944, the Conservative Government of Ontario, under the leadership of George Drew, introduced religious instruction into the public school system.

There was a lot of bitter controversy at the time.

Mitchell Hepburn, leader of the Liberal opposition protested "the introduction of a program of religious education which has caused disunity among large sections of our people, and has thereby violated the cherished democratic right of each to worship according to his conscience free from interference from the State."

Under Provincial legislation, elementary schools are to be opened or closed each school day with religious exercises consisting of the reading of the Scriptures and the repeating of the Lord's (or some other approved) Prayer, and two periods per week of one-half hour each, are to be devoted to religious education.

A school board, a principal, or an individual teacher can opt out, and parents have the option of removing their children from the program.

By 1947, religious instruction was being given by classroom teachers using guides from the Department of Education, in 8,388 classrooms and by clergy in 805.

In 1960, a special committee was appointed to study religious education in Ontario's public schools. A report was published in 1969.

By 1960, there was another wave of protest. Heavy immigration had brought in representatives of faiths other than the traditional denominations of Ontario. Controversy raged on three points, rights of minorities, concept of the separation of church and state and the increasingly secular character of public schools

R. Horwood, supervisor of curriculum with Hastings Board of Education said that some recommendations were being considered and that, possibly, there might be some changes in the regulations within the next year. More emphasis might be placed on the student developing a personal set of values, alternatives and their consequences.

Locally, controversy over religious instruction has raised its head again at continued on page 5

There is A & P opposition too.

From all the news we've been reading in the other papers, it would appear that everyone is in favour of re-zoning an area in Picton to accommodate construction of a 30,000 square foot A & P store on Main Street.

But there's another side to the picture.

Back last June, people from the area were protesting the re-zoning to commercial and some are planning to present briefs at the Ontario Municipal Hearings to be held on the morning of November 17 in the county courthouse.

Seven houses, now occupied, will need to be demolished to make way for the store. Five of them are on property already zoned commercial.

Back in September, the Scanner ran a story about a Picton businessman who warned that the size of the proposed store would need more than grocery continued on page 6

Letters to the Editor

Block Parents Plan - Join and Care.

TO THE EDITOR:

Many people might not have heard about the Block Parents Plan, but I have.

I myself think it would be a great idea and I would very much like to be a volunteer as I like working with, and helping children. I really enjoy helping the dances on Friday nights, it is a joy. Sure there may be some swearing and acting up from some children, but I know for a fact all you have to do is to talk gently and correct them then and there.

There was one child that swore a great deal and acted up quite a bit. I just told the child that I didn't like the swearing and the things the child did. The child now has really changed - no swearing and is so polite at Friday night dances that I think the child appreciated what I had said. I didn't have to yell or carry on with the child, I just dealt with the matter gently.

There are a lot of troubled children in Deseronto and all they need is someone to sit down with them for 20 minutes or half an hour and listen to their troubles. These bullies as the concerned parent called them, are the ones no one listens to, so they take it out on other children, men or women.

This is serious. There are problems and they are building up inside them every day. I, as a parent, am concerned, and I would very much like to be a Block Parent. Maybe some of the other parents could take some time to help aid the children and CARE. I think it would really help.

separate box now. Not all of them are still there but there are a lady of the house, a lady's maid, a butler and some children.

Their heads, arms and legs are china, with soft-coloured, delicate features. Their bodies are sawdust.

"There used to be a housekeeper with a ring of keys at her waist," Janet recalls.

Her interest in the things children enjoy hasn't waned through the years. She is a well-known writer of books for children and will soon be off on a reading tour in Newfoundland and New Brunswick. As part of a Canada Council project, tied in with Children's Book Week, she will be reading parts from her own books in libraries.

Bird's Eye View

by White &
Greenough

Well, one day last week my latest copy of the Free Press came in the mail, and Elma was hovering the kitchen with her goldarned noisy vacuum cleaner, so I went off to the bathroom to have a quiet read. Now reading in the winter time is the one real big advantage of inside plumbing. I mind my old granny, when me and Elma first put in the bathroom asking us what we wanted to do that for, how was we going to get any fresh air in the winter if'n we didn't have to walk over to the little house out back.

Anyways, there I was, looking over the paper to see what all was in it, when I seen this piece on the front page about a 77 year old farmer out west who was up on a marijuana charge.

Seems the old boy's eyes weren't too good, and he'd heard somewhere that a marijuana poultice would do them a power of good, so when he come across some of the plants growing in his garden he left them there so's he could poultice his eyes. By the time the RCMP's arrived they was near as big as Christmas trees, six feet high they was. So now the cops have got him up on a charge for possession. Out of the kindness of their hearts they ain't charging him with growing the stuff, that's worth a five year stretch, and seeing as he's 77, they figger he ain't likely to survive it. Seems he reckons on pleading not guilty, on account of he never smoked the stuff, just used it for polio on his eyes.

Now I hear that wild marijuana grows all over this part of the world, and I got to looking at my back forty. There's some patches up along some of the fields that ain't good for much. Seemed to me that that might make a real good cash crop, if'n I could sell it for medicinal purposes like. My Elma said it was a danged fool idea, and that I'd end up getting arrested like this feller out west. So I told her that he was pleading not guilty and I reckoned I could do the same. She just kind of snorted and said I'd do better to plead guilty - but insane. So I let the conversation drop there, I figger I ain't about to get no support from that quarter, so I might better forget the whole idea.

Talking about reading in the bathroom puts me in mind of a name I heard for the Scanner the other day. This feller I know out Long Point who always reads my column and always calls the paper the Squinty Canon. Reckon fer folks with my reading habits that's a real good name, don't you?

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
 Between the crosses, row on row,
 That mark our place; and in the sky
 The larks, still bravely singing, fly
 Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
 We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
 Loved and were loved, and now we lie
 In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
 To you from failing hands we throw
 The torch; be yours to hold it high.
 If ye break faith with us who die

Quinte News Round Up

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN

When you're faced with a gun, it's pretty difficult to take much notice of the guy who stands behind it.

Deseronto police are trying to make it a little easier to remember details. They are distributing a criminal description sheet, from the Ontario Provincial Police, on which to quickly mark height, weight, speech accent, glasses, visible scars, right or left handed, hair colour, clothes, shoes and other such details.

We wouldn't advise anyone to try filling the form in while the gun is still pointed at you. The criminal might not take that too kindly.

But it's a good idea for a quick recall after he's, or she's, left.

IF YOU CARE

Here's an easy way to complete your Christmas list...for the people who really don't need anything from you.

There's a way to send a Christmas gift worth $10.50 at a cost of only $2. This bargain is offered by CARE, the international aid agency, which last year delivered $9.25 worth of aid for each dollar contributed by donors in North America.

Attractive "Season's Greetings" cards at $2 each will tell relatives and friends that a contribution has been made in their honour to help lessen the misery of impoverished families in developing countries.

Cards may be obtained from CARE Canada, 1312 Bank Street, in Ottawa.

ONLY A MINISTER?

Napanee is considering a new restrictive taxi by-law under which an applicant must first be approved by the police chief and town council. A criminal record or history of not abiding by town regulations will mean thumbs down. The applicant must also have lived within the town limits for six months previous to the application. Liability insurance coverage of a $100,000 minimum will be required under the new by-law.

One councillor commented that if the by-law did pass council, it would require an 'ordained minister' to drive a taxi in Napanee.

How wrong can you get? The councillor should ask an insurance agent about ministers and driving - they aren't considered good risks by insurance companies which base their deductions on their claims records.

KEEP A FOOT ON THE BRAKE

People in Bath are concerned about 20 children of differing ages who must now cross busy highway 33 to get to school. Previously they were bussed but a sidewalk has now been installed and the school board has taken the bus off the route. A bus is not required by law for the distance the children have to travel, but was used for the safety of the children until the sidewalk was provided.

A small delegation approached Councillors with suggestions for crossing guards, or a buddy system with older children looking after the smaller youngsters.

Councillors are going to investigate the legalities involved in crossing guards and a public meeting is planned for the near future.

Meanwhile, if you're driving through Bath when children will be going to or from school - give them a 'brake'.

WOLF BAIT

Here's a press release from Fisheries and Environment Canada - on humane trapping.

As part of the Canadian government's contribution toward making the trapping industry more humane, biologists have studies ways of making traps more selective. If some specific scent or lure could be developed to attract only one type of animal, the killing of non-commercial species might be reduced.

The release points out that through the testing of various scents it was discovered that Chancel No. 5 had a specific attraction for wolves, the Canis lupus fur-bearing carnivores, as well as the two-legged human type.

The release doesn't explain how this is any more humane. We bet if one of the two-legged wolves was caught, he wouldn't think much of it either!

NDP TO MEET TO ELECT OFFICERS

Ian Deans, candidate for leadership of the Ontario New Democratic Party, and member of the Ontario Legislature for Wentworth for the past ten years, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting for the election of officers for the Hastings-Prince Edward NDP, Saturday, November 12.

The meeting will be held at Mother's Restaurant, north of highway 7 between Madoc and Tweed. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. followed by the nominations and elections. Nominations are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

GERIATRIC WARD

The census report, completed for Picton last month, shows a decline in all age groups except the 66 years plus. There are 86 children less in the five to 19 year age group, 40 less in the 20 to 65's.

We've heard it said before that Prince Edward is becoming the geriatric ward for Ontario - and the facts seem to prove it.

INTERNATIONAL REP

Nancy Jarvis, president of the union local at Bata in Picton, for the past three years, and member of the Quinte Labour Council, has accepted a position as an international union representative in Saskatoon. She will be working with the Boot, Shoe and Leather Workers' Union and will represent the union's interest at all levels of negotiations.

Nancy is the daughter of Picton town clerk, Andrew Jarvis.

NO PLUG-IN PHONES FOR US

Here's a news item from Ma Bell that isn't likely to be met with much pleasure by Prince Edward County people with 8-party lines, or the people along by Bath with their outdated systems.

Bell Canada is considering the introduction of a system in Kingston where the company pre-wires buildings, installing up to five telephone jacks in new houses and apartments, in areas where Bell-operated phone centres are located.

The new phone centres, or boutiques, display and sell various models of telephones. With the jack already installed, you can pick up a new phone and plug it in yourself, saving the cost of a $15 call when customers decide to add extension phones.

How interesting.

When asked whether the pre-wiring program might be viewed as an effort by Bell to boost sales of extension phones, Bell's Kingston manager said, 'That could well be.'

Parent protests religious teaching in school

the Pinecrest elementary school in Bloomfield.

Mrs. M. Mallory has taken her two children out of the religious instruction classes because she feels the instruction is too fundamentalist in character.

One of her children is in grade 8 and one in grade 4.

"We knew for a number of years that the older one was getting fundamental religious teaching," she said. "We counteracted it at home, telling the children that things aren't always as black and white as you are being taught. I was brought up by nuns in the separate schools and my husband in the United Church. We have together realized that religion is a personal thing and tolerance is necessary." She feels that tolerance is being destroyed by the fundamentalists.

"With all the prejudices and misunderstandings around us today, the children don't need religious bigotry as well. But it is a disturbing thing to be placed in the position of having to weigh whether it will do more damage to the children to take them out of class than to keep them in."

"Maybe some parents don't know what their children are being taught or don't care," she said.

Both of the people teaching religious education in the Pinecrest school are graduates of the Interdenominational

Bible School in Alberta...the Prairie Bible Institute

SHIRLEY GOERTZEN is not on the staff of the Prince Edward Board of Education. She offered her services to the board, was given endorsement by the Prince Edward Ministerial Association, and is now teaching in 50 county classrooms, including Princess Elizabeth School in Picton. She teaches the younger grades at Pinecrest and the older students get their religious instruction from CLARENCE BROOKS, vice principal. Mr. Brooks has his BA from Queens University, a teaching certificate, is a graduate of the Prairie Bible School and member of the Gideon Society.

Mr. Brooks pointed out that he feels children have a body, a spirit and a soul. "I believe it is good to try and meet the needs of the total child," he said.

"There is a scientific approach on such things as evolution and the Bible approach of where man came from. We teach Bible as the Word of God."

Teachers are usually in the classroom, he said, when the religious instruction is being given.

Concerning the complaint about the type of teaching at Pinecrest, W. LANE, chairman of the Prince Edward County Board of Education, said that Miss Goertzen approached the board and had the endorsement of the Ministerial Association.

"The principal has the say after that," Mr. Lane said. "It is our understanding that there is not much the board can do about it. She is not paid by the board. I was not aware that there was any problem and no approach has been made to us to ask us to stop it."

"Unfortunately, ministers don't go to the schools any more," he said. "When I was a boy, they went into the schools."

Mr. Lane's own boy has opted out of the religious education lessons at Queen Elizabeth School, with his parents' consent

"We only go to the schools when we're asked," said REV. D. HAWKINS, head of Prince Edward County's Ministerial Association, and minister at the Anglican Church in Wellington.

Asked about Miss Goertzen, he said he didn't remember her back round offhand, but said she was a lay person who applied early in the spring and was given approval to teach religious instruction in county schools for one year.

"It's something like marriage...how are you going to know how it works out until you try it," he said.

"We've had no complaints. We have no alternative than to back her up. We're quite happy with her, and more than happy to work with her. The principal at Wellington School is satisfied. And we're planning to have a meeting with her shortly."

And he summed up the gist of the whole religious education controversy with this comment, "It's a sticky wicket. Some people are bound not to agree when children go home with stories."

According to Mr. Brooks of Bloomfield school, Miss Goertzen is associated with the Canadian Sunday School Mission, which is primarily a rural mission to reach rural children.

However, she is teaching religious instruction at the Queen Elizabeth School in Picton...to an urban group.

A.L. HILL, school principal, says she is non-sectarian, with a fine appreciation of other people's points of view.

"It's and area I'm sensitive about," he said. "I used to teach in Hamilton, near McMaster University where there were a lot of Jewish children."

"She works from a guideline that has been checked through by the Ministry. It has a Christian background and there is an approved list of scriptures."

"Let's face it," he said, "the regulations are not current and I had to go digging to find approved material for our own opening exercises."

Three years ago, there was religious instruction at the Milford School. Some of the parents were opposed to the instruction the children were getting and the instruction was stopped. The teacher was a graduate of the Prairie Bible School.

PROPOSED A & P STORE

Will they buy locally?

the sales alone to cover the cost ... and the Scanner wondered if A & P might branch out, as it has done in Arnprior, finally putting some small, independent stores out of business.

Another point of interest about the A & P, do they buy locally?

In IGA, for example, you see Waupoos tomatoes, Baxter beans, Silver Ribbon tomatoes, tomato juice and pumpkin. Also, during the summer, IGA bought fresh produce locally.

Clendon Walker, vice president of Baxter Canners in Bloomfield, said A & P does not buy from them.

'This year, we did try for their business, indirectly, through our broker. We didn't get it, but we would like some.'

'IGA buys from us and some of our products sell under our labels, some under the IGA label.'

'The bulk of our business is in Quebec,' Mr. Walker said. 'But the freight rates from Prince Edward County to Quebec City, for instance, are comparable with the boat rates from the Panama Canal to Quebec City. Because of this we've lost our Quebec market to imports.'

No third term for Bill Brant as Mohawk Chief

William J. Brant, chief of the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte Band, has decided not to seek a third term of office. He has been chief since 1973 and, before that, was a member of Council.

No other candidates have as yet announced they will be trying for the office in the December 3 election.

State your views on pollution

Are you for cows wandering in and out of our lakes and bays, polluting them in the process - or against it?

Here's your chance to make yourself heard and to give your opinion

Professor A.D. Misener of Picton, chairman of the Kingston Regional Public Consultation Panel to the International Joint Commission's Reference Group on pollution from land use activities (PLUARG) is inviting briefs from the general public on pollution in the Great Lakes from land use activities

The Kingston Regional Panel, the sixth of 8 Ontario panels is comprised of 20 area residents and first met on October 20, 1977. It was formed as a result of 15 public meetings held across the province during the summer.

The panel's mandate is to consider the results of the PLUARG's five-year study of water quality in the Great Lakes and make recommendations on the most practical, economical and socially acceptable remedies to water pollution problems.

At the first meeting, PLUARG representatives introduced us to the rapid fertilization and environmental health hazards in the Great Lakes. On Tuesday, November 15, we will be considering how much of the lakes became polluted by land uses and to what extent remedial measures should be applied," said Professor Misener.

Any person wishing to review the PLUARG research materials and/or present a brief on remedial measures for any of the nine land uses being considered by the panel (of which agriculture and urban run-off are the major issues) should contact the PLUARG co-ordinator, Sally Leppard, at 519-256-7821 prior to the meeting. Members of the public are invited to observe the panel meeting during the day, and briefs will be heard at 7:00 p.m. at the 401 Inn, Kingston.

HAPPENINGS

Guest speaker at the Church of the Redeemer on Sunday morning, was Mr. Ralph Blatchford, police inspector for Belleville, and an elder of St. Columba Presbyterian Church. Mr. Gordon Fresque, elder of the Church of the Redeemer took the service at St. Columba.

Starting next Sunday, November 13, the Church of the Redeemer service will be at 1:30 p.m. with Sunday School at 10:30 a.m.

Two hour parking law effective

The motorists in Deseronto must be taking the new two-hour parking limit signs seriously... no charges were laid by the police during October for meter violations.

Actually, there has been a two-hour limit on the Main Street since 1976, when the by-law was passed, making it effective.

Hold up on delivery of the signs was the hang-up.

"We finally got delivery of the signs," Carman Milligan, clerk-treasurer reports. "We couldn't enforce the by-law until the signs were posted."

Deseronto police were busy during October with other activities. They investigated four motor vehicle accidents, with no injuries reported. Twenty charges were laid under the Criminal Code, 9 under the liquor control act and 14 under the Highway Traffic Act. Twenty-nine complaints were investigated and 279 other calls were made.

library notes

Displayed in the library window are mementos and souvenirs from both World War I and II. The library appreciates the present donations and welcomes more. In the window are featured books dealing with the various shadings and aspects of the two world wars. War is not a pleasant thing to remember, but a dangerous one to forget. One of our greatest freedoms is that of the right to read anything we wish. Remember that one of the first things Hitler did when he assumed power was to burn the books!

For those who enjoyed 'Roots', the library now has Barbara Smucker's 'Underground to Canada'. The story deals with two black girls who escape slavery by using the underground railway.

Just an early reminder to senior citizens there will be another showing of films of Friday, November 18. There will be more details concerning that in next week's column.

The story hour will end at 10:45 a.m. on Friday morning of this week, to allow everyone who wishes to go to the Cenotaph to do so.

Deseronto Legion News

This is the week that the country remembers the fallen of the last three wars. The Legion dedicates itself not only to their comrades that have passed away, but to the welfare and well being of all veterans that are in need or distress. On Friday and Saturday evenings there was entertainment at the Legion Hall which was well attended.

On Saturday, the members of Branch 280 and the Ladies Auxiliary sold poppies in town, helped by the Sea Cadets of 'Hawk' which are sponsored by the Legion. The receipts of Poppy Day are to help veterans and their families in need or distress.

On Sunday Branch 280 held its Church Parade, this year at St. Mark's which has the Legion Padre as their rector, the Rev. Jack Fletcher. For this service the invited preacher was the retired Archdeacon of Ontario, the Venerable A.S. McConnell, who was an army Chaplain in the Second World War, but had also served in the First War. He gave an inspiring sermon, which reached the hearts of all the congregation, as he spoke of those days overseas - one could feel the emotion as he re-lived them.

The parade was well attended by the Ladies Auxiliary. The president, Ross Carron hopes to see as good a turn out for the Nov. 11 parade to the War Memorial. All townspeople are welcome to attend at 10:45 a.m. The Legion Padre, Rev. Jack Fletcher will conduct the service.

On Monday November 14 there will be an executive meeting at 8 p.m. On Friday November 18, at 8 p.m., the Branch will hold a General Meeting.

William A. Woods was initiated as a regular member at the Honours and Awards supper.

Napanee man runs for NDP leadership

Here's a story of a Napanee boy who made good...and is still aiming for higher things.

Mike Breaugh, MPP for Oshawa, and son of Mr. and Mrs. T.H. Breaugh of Napanee, has declared his candidacy for leader of Ontario's New Democratic Party.

Born in Napanee, he graduated from the high school and worked his way through Peterborough Teachers' College with jobs at a local dairy and a food store.

Later, he taught elementary school during the day and English to new Canadians at night, while completing two university degrees by extension courses.

In 1972, he was elected to the Oshawa City Council and, in 1973, he became a full-time member of the Durham Regional Council. In 1975, he reclaimed the Oshawa riding for the NDP with 58% of the vote and held the seat, in 1977, with a majority of 5,000 votes.

He is the NDP Housing Critic and chairman of the procedural affairs committee.

Mike and his wife, Andrea, have two children, Sean 13, and Erin, 12.

Quinte Old Timers

Several members of the Quinte Old Timers enjoyed the fellowship at the drop-in last Wednesday afternoon. Linda Johnston called in to talk to the ladies about having classes for crocheting, knitting, etc. Quite a number were interested. It was decided to start the second week in January, at the drop-in meetings, 1½ hours each meeting for 12 weeks. Shuttleboard and cards will also be there for the men, and the ladies who do not care to take part in the classes.

New by-law affects everybody

Before the end of this week, all property owners in Deseronto should have a copy of the proposed new property standards by-law, so they will have an opportunity to study it and bring suggestions to the attention of Council at a special meeting on November 17.

'The by-law is going to affect everybody,' Carman Milligan, clerk-treasurer says.

Town Council discussed the by-law at a special meeting ... and no basic changes have been made. The by-law was based on a similar by-law from Belleville.

Despite the cold, wet wind on Armistice Day, a large crowd turned out for the parade and the laying of the wreaths in Deseronto. After the crowd had left, the Scanner photographer caught this little girl straightening up the wreaths which the wind had blown over.

'Sweeping changes' vetoed by Deseronto Council

There was a hot time in Deseronto's Town Hall Monday night when Council got into a lively discussion over proposals to streamline the Council's business by cutting the number of committees to five instead of the present seven (six standing committees and one ad hoc committee).

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, take it easy," said Mayor John Neal, pounding on his desk with his gavel at one point in the discussion.

The controversy arose when Councillor Clarence Ziemann presented a report from the By-laws and Legislation Committee, recommending changes in rules of order.

In addition to recommending a reduced number of committees, the report also recommended that elected councillors should have more say in what standing committees they should serve on.

Present standing committees are finance; streets and parks; fire and police; by-laws and legislation; property and recreation. Proposed committees were finance administration and by-laws; fire and police; streets and parks, recreation; and planning and development (residential, commercial and industrial).

"These are sweeping changes. The recommendations will change the face of present council," said Reeve Roger Cole.

"I wouldn't call replacing seven committees with five a sweeping change," said Councillor David Martin. "My time is at a premium and the more we can streamline, the better."

Councillor Lyndon Thomlinson said, "I feel we need a full-time property committee," and Councillor Allan Blayney commented, "I feel individual committees are more aware of conditions. They are the people who should budget for any repairs that have to be done."

Deputy Reeve Bernard Johnson asked, "If we combine three committees into one, how busy would that committee become?"

And Reeve Cole replied, "I feel a very active committee."

"If you feel the committees should be combined, why are there still some outstanding by-laws," Mayor Neal asked Councillor Ziemann. "Rule 37 states what you were charged to do. I would say you have been given a job to do and you haven't done it. The tax by-law and the sidewalk by-law haven't been brought in and yet you have brought in these recommendations."

"We had three new members on the by-laws committee who had never been on Council before," Councillor Ziemann pointed out. "The standing committee was set up in a few minutes. The police committee has three old members."

"When I was elected, I told people I'd do my best," Councillor David Martin said. "We are uncertain on the tax by-law, not sure of the needs. If you want recommendations we'll have to study."

'Don't quote me on A & P'

The pros and cons about the proposed 30,000 square foot A&P store in Picton gets curiouser and curiouser.

Reports in the local papers tell of 100% backing by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce. But the storekeepers surveyed by the Scanner are keeping their mouths shut - no one gave permission to be quoted.

One store owner said he had given his staff orders that no one was to speak to the press about it and he, himself, would make no comment.

Another store owner, who also would not let her name be used, said she was not worried about competition from the A&P because she, herself, liked shopping at small stores where she got personal service and, in turn, provided personal service for her customers.

In yet another store, the Scanner was told that in Georgetown where a Loblaw store and plaza opened up, the downtown area was hit hard.

A family meat and grocery business lasted just two years after the plaza came in. The proprietor ran at a loss for some time because he didn't want to let down his local help who had been with the family for years, but he was finally forced out of business.

On the other hand, the non-business people who will be affected are not so timid about voicing their opposition.

Margaret Hudgin of Agnes Street and her son, Barry, have been fighting the proposal since they first heard of it.

"The Town of Picton sent us a letter dated June 16, and we had 14 days to file our approval or disapproval," she said. "Because we were ignorant of the proper procedures, we were not allowed to say anything at the first meeting. At later meetings of the Planning Board we were made to feel that we were trying to do harm to Picton."

The Hudgins live in a house which has been in the family since 1906, at the dead end of the two block Agnes Street. The property to be used by A&P would put a parking lot or a building right up to the boundary line of their front yard.

"The plans keep changing," she said. "First there was to be parking for 360 cars, then 160, once they get the property what guarantee do we have about what will be there? The zoning by-law restrictions for residential are a 20 foot front yard, a 25 foot back yard and four feet on each side, but I understand a commercial property can be built right up to the end of the lot."

Two residential properties in the area will have to be re-zoned commercial if

"Plants are like people, they like air and sun," says Mrs. Laura Waterbury, of 312 Edmon Street, Deseronto. And she's got a huge poinsettia plant to prove her point. The plant was given to her five years ago by her sister-in-law, Margaret Jackson of Main Street. It was only about a foot high and it's got so big now that it had to be put in a larger pot. She doesn't put it away in a dark, damp cellar between seasons, she keeps it outside in the summer, bringing it in if it gets too hot, or rainy or blowing. And she keeps the soil up with a fork and waters it every other day. It's the first poinsettia she's ever had.

Board wants new agreement

There's an apparent lack of concern for us on the part of the Hastings County Board of Education," was Reeve Roger Cole's comment on the termination of the agreement between the board and the municipalities setting payments of school taxes on the basis of 50% on June 30, 25% on September 30, and 25% on Dec. 31.

The board has served notice that the agreement is ended and that a new agreement with the municipalities is to be negotiated.

Under the Education Act, the council of each municipality in a school division, must pay installments of 25% on March 31, 25% on June 30, 25% on September 30, and 25% on December 15, unless an agreement to pay otherwise has been made with municipalities representing at least two-thirds of the equalized assessment.

In a letter to the Town of Deseronto, the school board points out that they are anxious to revise the agreement because of the very significant cost of borrowing.

Yes, A&P does buy local products

Last week we questioned, 'Does the A&P buy locally?'

And we've been answered, 'Yes, they do.'

Metcalf Foods of Canada Ltd., in Deseronto is a wholly-owned subsidiary of A&P.

Robert Morris, general manager, reports, "All A&P frozen stuff comes from here. We have 5,000 or 6,000 acres under contract - green peas, green and wax beans, frozen kernel corn, carrots, potatoes and lima beans."

And they buy from two local canners from Baxter's in Bloomfield - whole tomatoes, tomato juice and choice peas, sold under an A&P label, and from Waupoose canners, all the green beans sold by A&P and many canned peas.

They do not buy from the Cherry Valley canners. Last week's Scanner story quoted Glendon Walker, of the Cherry Valley cannery, but in error, said the cannery was Baxter's in Bloomfield.

Well, by golly, now I see it all. Me and Elma were watching the idiot box the other day, and on comes this commercial for coffee. Dang me if they ain't got back to putting chicory in her, same as they used to do to make her go further, only now they ain't admitting that that's why, they're trying to tell all us old timers that it makes the coffee taste better. Now I ain't too sure about this, but it seems to me that a few years back the big push was on coffee without no chicory and how much better that tasted. Just one big marry-go-round ain't it.

Seems to me that Remembrance Day this year went of a lot better in most places than it usually does. Everyone seemed to have a real good turnout. Mind you, I ain't too sure that it does mankind much good. We got ourselves into a mess in the Second War, in spite of rememberin' the First, didn't we. Still, reckon it's worth pushing, just in case it does do some good, and it sure might help tell the young uns that war ain't all the TV and comics crack it up to be. Mind you, I figger me and Elma done more thinking about it down to the plowing match than we do on November 11th. Struck us all of a sudden that living in the trenches in France must of been pretty much like that plowing match sile. I can tell you, I wouldn't of fancied it at all.

Can't get over that stupid chicory ad. More I watches the way they try to make folks buy their rubbish, more I think these advertising fellers must figger we're all nuts. What with the sprays to make you smell, and the sprays to stop you smelling, and the baby powder in toilet paper, so's a feller can't blow his nose on it no more, and all the breakfast junk they're pushing, it's enough to make you wonder what the world's coming to. Read somewhere the other day about these scientific guys who fed one bunch of rats the cereal out of a cardboard box, and another bunch the box the cereal come in, and found the rats what ate the box done better. Reckon they're about right. I took a good look on the contents label on one of the boxes and compared it to hay, and I reckon we'd be better of eating hay than some of the junk, ain't much to it, except sugar, and now I hear that too much of that ain't good for folks.

Sure is a funny world. Now they're winding up fer Christmas. Elma says I ain't got to turn into no Scrooge the way I done last year, so I reckon I'd better not watch no TV, nor read no newspapers until it's all over. The older I gets, the more it sickens me to see the way the big advertisers cheapen everything, even Christmas, by gabbing for a fast buck.

So reckon I'll turn into a Greek idiot for the next few weeks, and be a real social drop-out until it all blows over. Then maybe me and Elma can have Christmas the way we figger she should rightly be.

EDITORIAL

Ontario Hydro is upping its rates for rural customers by an average of 5.7 percent, and blaming it on higher costs of providing services.

At the same time, they report that the increase would have been much higher, 9.8 per cent, had it not been for extra revenue of an estimated $108 million created by better than expected operating results in 1977.

Almost half of the improvement in the 1977 financial position resulted from a substantial increase in export power sales to the United States and reduced costs of administration, operation and maintenance, Hydro Chairman, Robert Taylor says.

The extra revenue must be returned to the customers under the anti-inflation guidelines established for Hydro by the Provincial government. The rural retail system's share is currently estimated at approximately $17.8 million.

Somewhere, Hydro has lost us, in its explanations. They made too much money in 1977 and one major reason was that costs of administration, operation and maintenance were reduced. Yet they were going to raise the rate by 9.8 per cent this year because of higher costs of providing service.

Anyway, here's a suggestion for hydro to reduce costs still further, on its public information printing. We got a 16 page booklet, plus four pages for a cover, called 'Working Under Extra High Voltage Transmission Lines'. It contains only 32 and 1/4 inches of typed information. The rest of the book is taken up with art and lots of blank white space.

The typed information would have fitted nicely on a one-fold sheet, with a cover and three pages of type. Doesn't Hydro know, or care, what paper costs nowadays, to say nothing of the energy used and pollution caused by the paper production?

CHIPPEWA'S 20TH ANNIVERSARY

As organizers of Chippewa's 20th Anniversary Celebrations, we are anxious to contact former students of Chippewa Secondary School.

The celebrations are planned for June 30 to July 1, 1978. Tentative plans include a cabaret, parade, golf, fashion show, tour, anniversary dinner and dance, etc.

Those interested are urged to write to Bill Colcock, 730 Rose Avenue, Apt. 10, North Bay, Ontario, P1B 6W4, to receive a complete brochure of planned activities, and to take advantage of special reservation rates.

INDIANS PROTEST

TO THE EDITOR

As a Native North American Indian I have viewed with interest Premier Rene Levesque's visit to France and also his obsession with the issue of Quebec separation. In my letter to Mr. Levesque I expressed my concern as to the effects that separation would have on our Treaty and Aboriginal Rights and our free travels throughout North America. Our treaties are not with Premier Levesque, the Parti Quebecois or with the Province of Quebec but with the Crown and Canada under International law is obligated to honor these commitments. International law states, 'A successor State must honor the commitments entered into by the Mother State'. Further, the Canadian Government under the British North America Act has assumed a responsibility to the North American Indians who are residing in Canada.

In my letter to Mr. Faure, the Speaker of the French National Assembly, I took issue with his comparison of Mr. Levesque's separation movement to the awakening of the American Indian awareness and reminded him that Mr. Levesque has not approached the Native North American Indians for permission to further carve up our land. I told him that there is absolutely no parallel to be found in the proposed theft of Rene Levesque and the awakening of the American Indian awareness!

In my letter to President Valery Giscard d'Estaing I referred specifically to his toast to Mr. Levesque in which he said, 'What you expect from France is understanding, confidence and support. Rest assured that you will have these along the road you decide to follow.' My letter asks the President of France, 'Does this suggest that France will become a party to theft? Could not one of France's primary motivations in supporting Premier Levesque be that it would give France a more convenient access to the natural resources and mineral right of the North American Indian People?' I referred specifically to our timber, asbestos, copper and uranium.

While we Native People can certainly sympathize with the French People in their desire to maintain their culture, customs and language, I repeat, 'Who has given Premier Rene Levesque permission to carve up our land?' I further acquainted Mr. Levesque with the fact that it was in the Province of Quebec that the French People gave Canada her name via the Mohawk People. It was at Duets-Dah-Geh or what is now called Montreal that the French People heard the Mohawks using the word, Gah-Nah-Dah. The curiosity of French was aroused and they desired to ascertain the meaning of the word, Gah-

Nah-Dah. The Indians informed them that the word meant Indian village. From the Mohawk word, Gah-Nah-Dah the French began to call this land Canada. I then said to Mr. Levesque, 'So Mr. Premier, whether you like the idea or not you are living in an Indian village.'

Finally, Madame Editor, I can stand accused of promoting the downfall of the Parti Quebecois' position on separation, but, Rene Levesque can stand accused of promoting the breakup of Canada in violation of the British North America Act. Canada, with all her shortcomings, is still the finest country on this globe.

Brant Joseph Maracle

Fact or Fiction - Taylor

I do hope that we are making some progress in separating fact from fiction and reality from rumour in regard to Ontario Hydro's expansion plans.

Certainly the Lennox Generating Station site leaves room for future expansion. Indeed, Ontario Hydro would have been open to criticism if it had not allowed for further development over the next quarter century when it acquired the Lennox site. As I have repeatedly pointed out it would be technically and economically impossible to convert Lennox oil-fired generating station to utilize nuclear fuel. As for any further generating stations, nuclear or non-nuclear, not already approved by the Government i.e. for service after 1985, this is precisely what the Porter Commission is now examining.

While I cannot assure when or if Lennox Generating Station will ever be expanded I would think that it would be in the interest of the eastern Ontario economy that we should encourage plans to keep power resources in this part of the province apace with economic development.

Sincerely,

James Taylor, Minister of Energy

ROUND & ROUND THE MONEY GOES

Profits of about $1.4 million expected to be made on sales of 2,400 housing units will be used to finance ministry programs, including the Ontario Home Renewal Program, Housing Minister John Rhodes told the Legislature.

So, maybe the 20 some people in Deseronto will get OHRP loans next year from the profits the government makes on making it tougher for other people to buy homes

Sounds like a vicious circle somehow.

COSTS OF IMPROVEMENT

And here's another home improvement nonsense item.

An Ottawa man insulated his basement to save energy, estimating an annual saving of $60.50. Cost of insulation was $500.

The provincial assessment office told him the finished room would add $95.78 to his taxes and another provincial spokesman said the tax raise would only be $63.76.

Whichever is right, the tax increase will eat up the energy saving costs.

So where's the incentive!

SNOW JOB

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications has announced that its winter road reporting service went into operation on November 7, at 16 district offices.

In this area, information may be obtained around the clock by calling Kingston 544-2220

If you get the same kind of information we got last year, during the big snow storm, don't waste your money on a long distance call. We were stuck in Toronto, trying to find out whether we could get back into Prince Edward County, which had been blocked off by the police, and all we could get out of the Toronto information office was that the roads in Prince Edward County were snow covered... we already knew that... what we wanted to know was whether the drifts were still 20 feet high and whether the police blockade had been removed. A phone call to the county garage in Prince Edward finally provided the information we needed to get home five days later.

CNIB CANVASS

Seventeen workers, under the leadership of L.F. Charter, R.R.4, Pictou, are busy visiting households in North Marysburgh, rounding up donations for the blind.

COMPUTERIZATION IN PICTON

Ted Rose Income Tax Services has announced that a specialized computer service will assist in income tax preparation in his office this year.

Although the service is nothing new - it's been around for ten years in other parts of the country, it's a first for Prince Edward.

We always said this formed a computer to figure out those forms.

A SECOND GRANT

The Allan Macpherson House in Napanee will be eligible for a Wintario grant of up to $22,500. The Province has already provided a $20,000 grant towards the $65,000 capital project.

We're not against keeping our history alive but maybe this is a time to think more about the present than the past. Lennox and Addington's welfare budget has stayed the same since 1975. In January of 1975, there were 119 cases on the welfare lists, and in January of 1977, there were 174 cases. With a squeeze like that on present needs, perhaps the historical past could wait a little longer for its second grant.

WHO SAID IT?

"It is nothing short of criminal that this county should be facing a winter of the highest unemployment known in the land in 40 years."

"...Surely the Canadian people deserve something better than a soliloquy that high unemployment must become a way of life and that inflation will be its handmaiden."

"...If we are to get our economy moving again it's time to cut corners and cut red tape. In our own Province we have a sorry spectacle where millions of dollars of construction are being held up while governments debate endlessly the niceties of community planning, and explore ad nauseum every conceivable environmental impact. All of this goes on while people are willing and looking for work."

Guess who made the above statements. None other than a high-ranking member of that same provincial government...Hon. James Taylor, Ontario's Minister of Energy and MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox, in and Armistice Day address to the Wellington Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

RIGHT FROM THE COW'S MOUTH

Metric conversion in the dairy industry is the subject of Agriculture Canada's exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair, which is underway now.

'Consumers, producers and processors will soon be working in metric, if they are not already,' says Agriculture Minister Eugene Whalen. 'The exhibit is designed to help everyone who produces, processes or consumes milk and milk products to make the shift to metric.'

A talking cow in the exhibit will help convey the message.

Wonder how the farmers will take to that one? They've had all kinds of so-called experts telling them how they should do all sorts of things for a long time - but advice from a cow?

A & P hearing scheduled for Thursday

the store does build there. Five houses on Main Street, which will be demolished, are already zoned commercial.

But the Hudgin's home will not be part of the purchase.

'I'd sell to them for a fair price and leave the county,' she said. 'But if we want ours zoned commercial, to help us sell, we would have to get a survey done at our own expense and submit an application.'

'We felt they don't care anything about us. The new store could be 28 feet from our front door. They're degrading the property we've worked hard to keep up for our old age.'

And she was worried about snow removal, 'It's always been a problem on this street.'

Last May she sent letters to Premier Davis, to Hon. James Taylor, to the Ontario Municipal Board and to the Town of Picton and the Planning Board. The latter two did not reply.

Why didn't A&P enlarge where they already are? she asked. 'Why didn't they buy where Hannigan's Hamburger is and expand down to the Public Utilities - it's all commercial'

Another resident in the area, Mrs. E. Greenfield of 45 Main Street, was concerned about traffic and housing problems - and the possibility of the store not being successful, leaving someone with a 'white elephant' on their hands.

She has two properties, housing four families, just west of the proposed A&P site. The driveway for the properties is on Amelia Street.

'Personally, I don't like the change from residential,' she said. 'This is one of the quietest areas in Picton. We have senior citizens living here and children. The children cut through Washburn Street going to Queen Elizabeth School and the Collegiate. And the senior complexes are across Main Street.'

'We have four dead-end streets here. We have trouble now getting on to Main Street and sometimes have to turn right, when we want to go left, just to get out.'

'They're going to need turning lanes, maybe traffic lights - it's going to be expensive. It's mind-boggling the amount of hydro, sewerage, water, sidewalks, the town is going to have to keep up,' she said.

Picton is sorely in need of housing. Using 5,000 square feet for a house, the 30,000 square foot site for the store could accommodate six houses. And seven houses are coming down. Two are three-family terraces, so, rightly speaking, that's 13 housing units.'

'And if it fails, who's going to have the white elephant?' she questioned. 'We think that merchants felt this in the beginning, but capitulated. It's not going in the downtown core and not actually on Main Street. Some of the merchants feel it's the lesser of two evils - on the proposed site or out in the country.'

Mrs. Greenfield started hearing 'rumors' about the store around Christmas time last year. Last February she was allowed 20 minutes to address Picton Council.

She was one of those living within 400 feet who got a letter from Town Council. She sent a letter to the Ontario Municipal Board and got a letter telling her to appear at a hearing.

The hearing is being held tomorrow (Thursday) morning in the county Courthouse, Picton.

Both Mrs. Greenfield and Mrs. Hudgin plan to be there.

Conflict in Deseronto Council

further. We'll slap them in if you want them, but we haven't found a taxi by-law we want to recommend."

"I'm not against the fact that elected members should be able to decide what committee to serve on. I do object to clerk-treasurer and the mayor deciding on committees," Deputy Reeve Johnston said.

Councillor Lyndon Thomlinson disagreed and said he felt the present committee system is adequate and makes a fair choice for everyone.

"Either this goes to the committee as a whole or dies right here," Mayor Neal said.

Council recessed to discuss the recommendation in committee as a whole and reconvened to make their committee decisions formal in Council.

It was decided that the committees would stay as they are. The method of choosing committee members is unchanged, but all councillors will be given the opportunity to put in writing what their preferences are.

Council also decided not to change meeting dates.

Bill McMechan scores in the Legion Pee Wee game. The Pee Wees won their fifth game in a row this week, beating Picton 5 to 1. Goals were scored by Bill McMechan, Todd Zieman, Doug McMechan and Chris Brant(2). Assists went to Doug McMechan, Doug Peever, Tim Murphy, Bill McMechan, Steve Cassidy and Gary Thompson. The next game against Belleville is on November 19 at 5:30.

Deseronto Minor Hockey Report

Bantams

On Friday, November 11, the Deseronto Bantams travelled to Wellington only to return home with a 7 to 0 defeat. The Wellington team proved to be a much better skating team than ours - a factor which helped them score this victory.

On Saturday, the Bantams played at home against Napanee, and again lost the game, this time 5 to 1.

The Deseronto team played very loosely on both defence and offence. They had several good scoring chances, but only managed to grab one, from the stick of captain Dave Hill, assisted by Carl Vance. Not only did they lose the game, they also lost the services of a defence man, Rick Cole, who was given a game misconduct in the third period. This means he also has to sit out the next game, which is on Sunday, November 19, when Deseronto will host the Wellington team at the Deseronto arena at 7:00 p.m.

Let's hope this losing streak doesn't last, and that the team will soon be back to their usual form.

Midgets

The Deseronto Midgets, jointly sponsored by Reid Reid and Sutcliffe Enterprises, played two more games this past week.

On November 10, the local squad handed Godfrey Midgets their first defeat of the year with a very close, hotly contested 5 to 4 victory.

The goal scorers for Deseronto were Ronnie Van Vlack with 2, John Farrell with 1 and Doug Campbell with 1. John Farrell also picked up 2 assists, with two more going to Tommy Green and Leonard Farrell.

On Saturday night the boys were invited to play an 'Exhibition' game with the Napanee Midgets, who are not in our division, but rather in the 'A' division of the Quinte St. Lawrence.

Previously, the boys had lost an 'Exhibition' game to Napanee by a close 5 to 4 score, but such was not the result Saturday night. Led by the 'Lonsdale Line', Deseronto outscored, outplayed and out shot their hosts and ended up with a 7 to 4 win.

John Farrell picked up 2 goals and 2 assists to give him a season total of 20 points after only 6 games. Leonard Farrell potted another 2 goals while adding an assist and Ray 'Razor' McGuinness put the icing on, picking up 3 goals as well as 1 assist. Cory Vick also picked up an assist in the game.

After four regular games, the boys are now 2 for 4, with the next game being played at the North Frontenac arena on November 15 against Godfrey, and the next home game in Deseronto on November 17 against Tamworth.

PE Manpower grants allocated

Back in the summer, the Scanner reported that grants for Canada Manpower Works Programs went down the drain in Picton because no one applied for them.

The story ran in advance of the August 26 deadline for applications for this year's grant.

It's a different story this time. In Prince Edward County, 14 applications were received and the Job Creation people in the Kingston office report there is not enough money for all of them.

Two have been approved, 10 have been turned down and two are still under consideration.

In essence the aim of this Federal program is to create jobs and utilize skills in providing useful services or facilities to the community.

The two projects approved to date will provide 12 jobs for 192 working weeks and 4 jobs for 100 working weeks.

The Senior Citizens Activity Motivation program will have four employees to provide companionship, crafts, physical activities, outings and similar activities for approximately 340 residents in nursing homes and county homes.

Cost for the employees will be $16,125.

The other approved project is the Hastings and Prince Edward Roman Catholic Separate School Community Auditorium, to be built on Church Street, Picton.

The building will be used as a gym during school hours and for community activities in the evenings. The old gym will be torn down and the space used for a playground.

The grant will cover 25% of the cost, $29,924 and the separate school board will pay the rest.

THE DESERONTO REPORTER

News and events of specific interest to the residents of the Town of Deseronto

Rev. Jack Fletcher, Padre for the Deseronto Legion, conducted the service at the War Memorial on Armistice Day. Despite the cold, wet weather, there was a large turnout and 82 wreaths of remembrance were laid.

Deseronto Legion News

By ART HILL

On November 11th, 1977 Deseronto Legion held their Remembrance Day Parade. It had been raining hard up to just before parade time when the clouds broke and the sun came through.

It was the largest turn-out for years, although it was very cold. The Parade was under the direction of the Sgt.-At-Arms, Comrade Art Hill, and formed up at Edmon Street, then marched to the War Memorial where the Legion Padre, Rev. Jack Fletcher, conducted the service.

Mr. Wayne Reid of Napanee was the piper leading the parade, and a member of the RCSCC Hawke sounded 'Last Post' and 'Reveille'.

Units in the parade included Legion Branch 280 with the Ladies Auxiliary, the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets of 'Hawke', the Boy Scouts, Voyageurs, Cubs and Beavers.

After the service, the parade marched down Main Street, with the Mayor John Neal and Legion President Comrade Ross Carron and Padre Comrade J. Fletcher at the saluting base outside the Public Library. The Mayor of the town took the salute.

At the War Memorial, the laying of the wreaths was begun by the Mayor on behalf of the town. A total of 82 wreaths were laid, a very large number for a town the size of Deseronto. The following is a list of the wreaths presented:

Mayor Neal, for the town; Mrs. Jamie McQueen, a silver cross widow on behalf of the mothers and wives who gave their sons, daughters and husbands in the First, Second and Korean Wars; President Ross Carron, for the Branch 280, and President Elsie Hawthorne for the Ladies Auxiliary; First War Veterans; Second War Veterans; Branch 280 Associates; Branch 280 Fraternal members; Deseronto Police, Fire and PUC; Canada Optical Co; United Restaurant; LCB of Ontario; C. - A Public Meeting on the new property standards by-law will be held Thursday, November 17 in the Council Chamber.
- A request that the Town Librarian be placed on the administrative staff and given the benefits of life insurance and compensation that other town employees are receiving, was referred to the finance committee for consideration

- A street light has been suggested for the corner of Green and Dundas Streets. Ethel Kemp, of the Koffee Shoppe, pointed out in a letter to council that anyone having to wait for a bus after the store was closed had a dark wait.

The matter was turned over to the Public Utilities

- Council members accepted an invitation from the Deseronto Fire Department to attend the Annual Supper on December 3

library notes

What do you think of this fall's television shows? If you're not happy with what you see, the library offers you an alternative

The library has a number of new books this week. M. Howard's 'Soldiers and Lovers', Hans Herlin's 'Commemorations' and the biography of Dr. Norman Bethune are available.

For young adults, the library is featuring the Canadian 'Rod and Van' magazine and Miss Chatelaine's special winter fashion issue.

If any of you kids are asking for skateboards this Christmas, it might make parents feel a bit better about the sport if they knew you had read up on it first. So, come and get Tom Cuthbertson's 'Anybody's Skateboard Book'. Actually the parents will find this a very entertaining book to read as well.

The library would like to publicly thank the Deseronto Lions Club for generously donating $100 towards books for pre-school children. It will be put to good use!

Finally, as a reminder to senior citizens, the film presentation will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the main library on Friday, November 18, 1977. The library is looking forward to seeing you.

Happy hunters bag two deer

A buck and a doe in the very first morning of the deer hunting season.

That was the record set by a party of hunters which went out with Gerald Lawlor of Deseronto last week.

Leonard Foster, also of Deseronto, got the spike-horned buck and Dennis Hewett of Napanee got the doe.

minds of property owners who attended the public meeting on the by-law Thursday evening

It's getting more and more like a police state," said Leo Edwards. "You can't step out of your house without breaking some law. Governments are just too snooty."

Property owners were concerned that if the by-law, who has already had two readings, got its third reading and approval from Council, an inspector could walk into their house and force them to make all the changes so that the house would conform with the standards by-law.

"We're not witch hunting," said Councillor David Martin. "This is not a by-law to persecute any home owner."

"We're not planning to hire a body to enforce the by-law by going out and inspecting all properties. There are only two ways to inspect a property...one under the occupant's permission, and the other under a court order. A search order for an owner-occupied house is probably an impossibility."

"Your house would have to be in an awful shape for us to get a court order to let us in," Councillor Clarence Zieman said.

Councillor Martin pointed out that the building code is not retroactive, applying only to new building.

"We have tenants in town who feel they are being mistreated by absentee landlords," he said. "We can't make them repair the property unless we have a property standards by-law."

By-laws such as the property standards by-law are "becoming more and more necessary under the Ontario and Federal Governments to qualify for grants such as Ontario Home Renewal and Neighbourhood Improvement programs," Mayor John Neal pointed out. "It's sure not a vote-getting by-law but we'll be eligible for more grants if we have this by-law."

According to Carman Milligan, clerk-treasurer, Deseronto was eligible for OHRP loans this year because the Council, by resolution, had adopted the residential standards the Ontario Government had set up...and the standards only applied to those seeking OHRP loans.

"Would we have time to get things done?" was another question.

"Yes, and a time limit would be set if it was owner-occupied," said Councillor Martin.

"What if we get a council later on which isn't as generous as you," Leo Edwards asked.

Poked their way out of jail

If you go around to the back of the Deseronto Fire Station, you'll see a spot on the wall where a big hole has been bricked in.

Back in the past, somewhere before the 1940's, when the lower floor of the building was used as a police station, a prisoner, armed with a big poker, banged his way out of confinement, took off and was never heard of again.

Where did he get hold of the poker? It was the one used to stir up the fire in the old potbellied stove which heated the building.

Prisoners were left alone in the jail at night...not locked up in their cells but allowed the freedom of the whole jail so they could keep their fire going through the night.

Art Hill of Edmon Street, who was police chief from 1947-49, recalls that, at that time, he had a space for a desk and one filing cabinet in the Town Hall.

He was the only policeman in town and did his rounds on a bicycle.

"The budget for my pay, the prisoners' upkeep and everything else was only $2,400," Art said. "We used to let transients stay at the jail too." remembers having transients call at her house in the morning, after a night in

Clean up own problems

"Before you start making homeowners work on their drainage problems, the town has to clean up its own drainage problems," Leo Edwards told Mayor John Neal, and council members at the public meeting held Thursday to hear any objections or discussions on the proposed property standards by-law.

"I've been living here 15 or 16 years, have paid taxes, and what has been done about drainage," he questioned.

"We know there are serious water problems in town," Councillor Martin said. "We have a master storm sewer plan now. We're not ready to announce anything about our five-to-ten year plans right now, but any new sewers will be in line with the plans."

He reassured Mr. Edwards that the new by-law deals with roof drainage or surface water...and not with subterranean seepage into the basement.

because some municipalities had no form of by-law.

A Toronto representative for the A&P, in his summing up, said they had already made 12 important concessions to the objectors and the chairman said they were, indeed conforming to the by-law but nowhere approached the responsibility a developer of this type should take, and, in future, everyone was going to have to have more vigilance about by-laws.

Some highlights from the meeting:

• At peak times, 180 cars an hour will enter or leave the two entrances on Main Street.

Picton re-zoning for A and P approved.

The Ontario Municipal Board, Thursday, gave qualified approval to a re-zoning application which will make possible the construction of a $2 million, 30,000 square foot supermarket on Main Street in Picton, by changing adjacent land in the Amelia, Agnes and Washburn area from residential to commercial.

A formal order of approval will not be granted until the OMB has been notified that a proper site plan has been executed with Town Council, the content of which is to be substantially the same as the proposals brought out at the OMB hearings in Picton, Thursday.

At the hearing, protesters, armed only with concern about traffic problems and the changing character of the residential area, faced a barrage of experts, with lists of degrees and accomplishments after their names, and with portfolios of market surveys, traffic surveys, population assessment and taxation records, capital debt statements, official county plans, draft plans for Picton, etc., etc.

Protestors were given every opportunity to be heard by D.S. Colbourne, chairman of the hearing, and some of their objections (given at the hearing and in previous correspondence) have been taken into consideration.

For example, the entrance on to Washburn Street will be chained at night and will have a concrete median too narrow to allow a truck through, or a snow plow bigger than a single. There will be speed bumps to prevent racing in the parking lot. Lights will be directed onto the lot, rather than in the street. And there will be unloading bays with casing to muffle sound. It was recognized that this would not cover the sound of diesel motors which are left on during unloading. There is no by-law to cover the time of day unloading can be done.

The chairman questioned what size building could be allowed on a commercial site in Picton. After some digging and questioning, it was found that the by-law covering this was passed in 1961 and 75% of the site could be covered by a building.

The chairman commented that the level of control by by-law in Picton could only be described as early Canadian... but they were fortunate, because some municipalities had no form of by-law.

A Toronto representative for the A&P, in his summing up, said they had already made 12 important concessions to the objectors and the chairman said they were, indeed conforming to the by-law but nowhere approached the responsibility a developer of this type should take, and, in future, everyone was going to have to have more vigilance about by-laws.

Traffic was blocked up and down the bridge on 49 Highway early Friday morning when this tractor trailer ran on to the muddy shoulder, trying to manoeuvre the left turn from the Northport Road to go up the bridge. People in Sophiasburgh Township have been concerned about large trucks which will be coming and going from Atlantic Vehicle Fabricators, located in the former Edgewater Cannery on Northport Road. "This was not one of our trucks," W. Thomas of Atlantic Vehicle Fabricators said. Asked if trucks had trouble making turns out of the business property on to Northport Road, he said, "It's tight, but they manoeuvre and make it."

I were down to the feed store the day, picking up some scratch feed for Elma's chickens, and I heard a real good story. Always like to go into the feed mill, smells good in there, what with the grain and molasses and all, and usually there's two three fellers I know in there and we can do our business and have a nice conversation at the same time.

Noticed something I never seen before. They got a sign up telling the boys to be sure to check the belts on the machines before they turn them on. Being nosy like, I asked why they'd put her there, and it seems that one time the old mill cat was sitting on the belt when somebody threw the switch. Weren't too much left of that old cat I reckon.

Anyway, as I were saying, I heard a story down there that I figger is worth passing on. Seems a bunch of guys from Picton went back north to do some deer hunting this fall. Well they didn't have no luck at all. No sign not sight of no deer, just a nice young moose that kept wandering through their camp. Now I ain't too sure whether they weren't allowed to shoot moose in that area, or whether the season was over or what, but as time went by and they didn't shoot a deer, that nice young moose sure looked tempting. Well the day come when they had to leave for home, and one of the fellers finally found the temptation just too much. He said, 'Holy Dooley, I ain't going home empty handed, I'm going to shoot that moose.' Well there was some argument about it, but he said he was prepared to take the risk, and the other guys didn't want nothing to do with it. So next time the moose comes wandering by, he ups and shoots her. Loaded her into his truck and took off for Picton. No problem. So he gets home and hangs that moose up in his garage.

Next morning, the game warden comes knocking at his door. He says yous hunting up to the place they'd been at, and the guy says 'Yes. Then the warden says, you shot a moose out of season didn't you? Well I did not, says the hunter. Well, after a bit of an argument, the warden said he knew that the guy had a moose and that it were hanging in the garage. Well, then the feller had to admit he shot this here moose, and got the fine to pay and all. But he figgered one of his hunting friends must of told on him, so he said to the warden, 'Just tell me one thing, who turned me in?'

'Why, the moose did,' said the warden. Seems the danged fool had gone and shot a moose what was wired up with a radio transmitter, and all the warden done was to follow the beeps right up to his garage door.

Goes to show you that you can't even get away with a spot of poaching nowadays, don't it?

EDITORIAL

In future everyone is going to have to be more vigilant about by-laws.

That was the timely piece of advice given by D.S. Colbourne, chairman, at the Ontario Municipal Board hearing into the rezoning of properties from residential to commercial to allow construction of an A and P store on Main Street in Picton.

The people in Sophiasburgh Township who did not want a truck terminal on their shoreline found this out a few months ago.

They had an opportunity in early summer to study the proposed zoning by-law for the township. Although it was clearly shown in the proposed by-law, they did not realize that the property in question would allow a truck terminal as it had not, previously, been used for that purpose.

In Deseronto, last week, Council gave property owners an opportunity to ask questions and voice objections about the proposed property standards by-law. About 17 people turned up, some of them concerned that the by-law would be an invasion of their personal rights. Were all the rest of Deseronto's property owners satisfied with the by-law? Were they even interested?

There is a lot of activity going on now across the Province pertaining to property standards, planning and zoning by-laws, spurred on partly by the fact that municipalities must set certain standards to be eligible for some provincial and federal grants.

In Prince Edward, an official plan for the county was given approval last February. A secondary land use plan for Picton is now in draft stage. In Lennox and Addington, 27 applications for the job of county planner have already been received and one will be hired as of Jan. 1 to help establish a county-wide plan to work with municipalities to bring their plans into line with the overall one.

What is planned for your community affects you. You can help your elected representatives do their job by letting them know what it is you want for your community.

Picton needs A & P for 'Economic boost'

John Ashwood, a senior transportation planner said he had prepared a study of traffic, parking and impact on the area and concluded the street system could handle it.

Asked by a member of the audience if he had done any surveying in the summer months, when Main Street is solid with traffic, he said 'No', and the questioner said, 'You should'.

• About half the disposable income for the type of goods sold by A & P is going outside the town, Prince Edward planner, R. Ahmed, agreed.

When asked what he thought the effect would be on other stores, he said he looks on this a merely a re-location of an existing store so no study was made and he intimated that according to plans, downtown Picton was to stretch from the LCBO to Bridge Street.

• Using a figure of $14 a week per capita for food in the county, A & P market analyst Murray Huffman said they calculated that the three major Picton supermarkets were losing $100,000 a week food dollars to outside areas ... he estimated the potential expenditures at $221,000.

• R. Scott, Picton merchant, said he had been apprehensive when plans were first announced, especially when he visited London and saw that supermarkets did, indeed, sell some of the things his store was marketing. He still thought it was good to have the store there and he would just have to become more competitive.

• A. Jarvis, Picton clerk-treasurer, when questioned by Jack Ward, town solicitor, estimated the town will receive an annual tax revenue of approximately $17,000 from the supermarket.

• Hetty Campbell questioned whether there would be a loss in revenue if it was built somewhere else. 'I think we should consider other alternatives, she said.

Her house will be looking directly into the store. Asked whether she liked looking at the 'Mosquito-infested swamp,' she said she had always, personally, enjoyed it ... there were flowers in the spring and summer. The chairman commented that the witness obviously had other priorities.

• Barry Hudgin was concerned about the depreciation of residential property values.

• Mrs. E. Greenfield thought possible if the area in question was used for residential, and homes built, the tax on that many houses might bring an amount equal to the sum of taxes from the supermarket.

She questioned a statement that there would be no cost to Picton. She took it for granted that at the very least, a traffic light would be needed, and Main Street might need to be widened.

In summing up, the chairman gave specific answers to each of the protesters, but pointed out that, for Picton to survive, it must have an economic boost.

BATH BUSSING

Nothing has yet been decided about getting the 47 children in Bath, who live within a mile of the school, back and forth everyday. The school bus service was cut off and parents are concerned about youngsters having to cross busy highway 33.

Parents are going to look into getting a local bus. And the municipality will look into the possibility of supplying school crossing guards.

The school board provided the service until a sidewalk was ready for the students to use.

The board, with an increase of $250,000 in its present $1 million transportation budget, says it has to stick to its policy.

With costs like that, no wonder they have to stick to the rules.

HYDRO SWITCH

Remember the old days, when Ontario Hydro was urging us all to "live better electrically" and advertisers were pushing us to buy more and more electrical gadgets...especially for Christmas presents?

Now, it's a different story. Hydro is asking customers to keep their Christmas displays modest to conserve electricity.

Although Hydro reports it does not anticipate problems in meeting power needs this winter, they are using a slogan for indoor and outdoor Christmas lighting... "Off until 7 p.m., off again at bedtime."

How's that for a switch?

OLDFASHIONED CHRISTMAS

Back in the 1820's and 30's, people knew how to have a great Christmas without any electricity at all.

Since December of 1969, staff and volunteers who work at Macpherson House in Napanee have been rediscovering ways people got ready for Christmas 140 years ago. Preparations then were simple but basic...making mincemeat and plum puddings over an open kitchen fire, popping corn for garlands, spinning wool for weaving warm clothes and blankets, making their own decorations.

This year, they are busy at the house making treats to sell, and other Christmas gifts.

The Macpherson House will start its prelude to the holiday season on December 4. Proceeds are going to help restore the Stoddart piano which has long stood, elegant but silent, in the ballroom.

If this can be accomplished, they will be able to offer to small audiences evenings of high quality musical entertainment as well as recital opportunities for gifted local people.

A RIGHT TO WORK

Youth unemployment may be with industrialized countries for the rest of this century. This was part of a statement from the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development released in a newsletter from the director of the Lennox and Addington Board of Education.

Young people are discriminated against in employment because they lack basic skills and because various policies protect older workers, the statement said, and called for a new target for educational policy claiming the target for educational policy, claiming the right of young people to gain a foothold in the world of work can be looked upon as comparable with the right to a basic, compulsory education.

Don't blame the older workers. They've got a right to earn a living too. Let's put the blame where it belongs...on an economy that doesn't seem to be going anywhere.

NO LOST JOBS

There's a new company looking after the food service at Prince Edward Heights. Domco Foodservices Ltd., Toronto, has been awarded the contract for supplying between five and six hundred meals a day to residents and staff. They replace Beaver Foods Limited who have been supplying the service for the past six years.

Camille Grimard, company supervisor, will be responsible for a foodservice staff of about 30.

Asked if that meant that previous staff would be replaced, Mr. Grimard said the same staff would be used.

SECOND VOTE

December 17 has been set for the second vote to be taken on the conditional and qualified surrender of approximately 124 acres of Tyendinaga Indian Reserve property.

A referendum held on October 29 did not carry although the majority of those voting were in favour. To carry on a first vote, 277 votes in favour would have been necessary. Only 299 of the registered voters cast their votes. Twelve ballots were spoiled, 163 were in favour and 124 against.

On this second vote, the decision depends on the majority of those who vote.

ANY OLD BONES?

Overheard at a local meat counter this week... "Sorry we have no bones for your dog today, they get picked up on Mondays." "What do they use them for?" the butcher was asked. And the answer...detergents and cosmetics.

Keeping busy makes retirement happy

What does a farming family do when he retires, if he enjoyed farming all his life?

Don and Lillian Kerr of Morrison's Point Road in Prince Edward, have found an answer that suits them.

'It's not good for people to have nothing to do,' says Mr. Kerr, 'so we have kept just enough livestock to keep us occupied.'

They have some horses and a few cows. The milk is used for feeding calves.

They used to be in the milk business and 'it's nice not to have to catch the milkman anymore,' they say.

Last winter, during the big blizzard, they supplied milk for some neighbours too.

'Some of them didn't know about the old-fashioned ways of doing things, and they weren't prepared for being snowed in,' Mrs. Kerr said.

Another activity they enjoy is tapping maples for maple syrup every year, about the beginning of April, when the weather is below freezing at night and about 40 degrees Fahrenheit in the daytime.

'The sugar bush is just a hobby,' she said. 'A sort of non-profit, co-operative hobby. Some of the 500 maples are ours and some belong to neighbours. Everybody works like mad and shares the syrup.'

The evaporator used for the syrup has an interesting history. It was brought from Waupoos Island on the ferry when it was bought from the Oblate Fathers who had used it there.

The Kerrs live in a Century Farm which belonged to Mrs. Kerr's family. Her husband's family home in Waupoos, is also a Century Farm. The front windows of the Kerr home look over the fields to Lake Ontario and Mrs. Kerr remembers the activity there was in the past when boats called in to load with local apples.

Stickers for '79 on sale soon - rates increased

How much space do a ton and a half of licence plates take up? A lot more space than the stickers now issued for passenger car registrations in this Province.

"We issue about 2,000 registrations for passenger cars from this office every year," says Gerald Lott, Deseronto jeweller and the issuer of vehicle registrations since 1964. "I used to have to find space to store about a ton and a half of them every year. Now I just have to find storage place for commercial vehicle plates, motorcycle and snowmobile plates.

"We do keep some passenger car plates on hand for people who lose one, sometimes in a car wash. And cars sold as mechanically unfit have to turn in the plates and then get new ones when the car passes the fitness test. New plates are also required for people coming from other jurisdictions."

And issuing the registrations is easier now eh? it's a matter of handing out stickers, instead of matching up plates to registration licence number.

Registrations go on sale December 1, and motorists will find fees are a lot steeper in sothern Ontario than they were last year...but northern Ontario residents will only pay $10 to register a vehicle or a motorized mobile home.

Fees for passenger cars here are four cylinders or less $30 (up $7 from last year), five or six cylinders $45 (up $13).

Deseronto Legion News

By ART HILL

The monthly general meeting of Branch 280 was held on Friday, Oct. 18. The president, Comrade Ross Caron presided. With the sergeant at arms, Comrade Art Hill marching on the colours and the singing of "Oh Canada" the meeting was underway. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted as read.

The president has now made it a regular procedure at each meeting to initiate any member that has joined and has not been sworn in. A person joining the Legion has no status until he has been initiated.

The reports of the committees were favourable.

The following members were initiated: Harold Bradshaw as a regular member; Thelma Williams and Gerald Jackson as associates.

Bill Laventure received his 30-year service pin. He was unable to attend the Honours and Awards supper owing to family illness. Zone President Comrade A. Fraser made the presentation.

The membership chairman has two applications for a transfer to Branch 280.

The Legion has a PeeWee hockey team they sponsor, known as the Legion All Stars, with an unbeaten record of seven straight wins. Coach is Comrade A.

Gerald Lott, local vehicle licence issuer, and Mervin Sherman of Deseronto, take a look at the chart outlining requirements for driver licences. Ontario's new classified driver licensing system goes into effect on February 1, and Mr. Sherman wants to know what kind of licence is needed to drive a truck. "Not a school bus," he says. "I don't want to drive a school bus with all those kids." He has been driving for 41 years, drawing milk for 16 years and also drawing oil.

seven or more cylinders $60 (up $20).

There hasn't been and "flak" here yet about rising fees and the differential for northern Ontario. Mr. Lott thinks this is because so not many people are aware of it yet.

Mervin Sherman of Deseronto, who was in the office at the time, asked where the line was being drawn, and was shown a card outlining the northern limits. "For purposes of passenger car registration, Northern Ontario means that part of Ontario consisting of the territorial Districts of Algoma, Cochrane, Kenora, Manitoulin, Parry Sound, Rainy River, Sudbury, Thunder Bay, Temiskaming and that portion of the territorial District of Nipissing lying north and west of Algonquin Park."

And, there's a $200 fine for giving false information on the renewal form, in case anyone was considering heading north to sign up.

"There could be someone paying the high fee and the person across the road paying only $10," Mr. Sherman commented.

"Yes, but wherever the line is, that could happen," said Mr. Lott.

Registrations go on sale on December 1 and people have until the end of February to get their stickers.

Deseronto is like most of her places across the province. People wait until the last minute. "About two-thirds of the business is in the last two weeks of February," Mr. Lott says.

Councillor Martin admitted there might be such a possibility but thought the advantages outweighed the disadvantages.

A question concerning a run-down building on sewerless adjoining property which "looks right into my kitchen" was asked.

"Now do you have an idea of why we need this by-law, Councillor Martin said.

jail, asking for breakfast. "I used to give them something to eat," she said, "but didn't let them in the house."

Jim Waterbury, who lives next door to the fire station, has the old poker now.

"At one time there was a market square near the old jail," he remembers. "The court was upstairs over the jail and the policeman would go around the market checking things. If he thought a pound of butter looked doubtful, he'd take it in and weigh it. If it was too light, he'd hand out a ticket and say, 'go upstairs and make your contribution.' There used to be a library in the building too."

The Scanner asked one of Deseronto's oldest residents, Blake Moore, of the Senior Citizen Apartments if he could remember any more about the jail break.

He thought it was someone call VanAlstyne who escaped, but wasn't sure. He did recall that the prisoner was never seen here again.

The Scanner would be interested in getting any further information

When you pull the plug on your sink, do you ever watch until all the water is sucked down into the black opening of the drainpipe?

It's rather disturbing to think that a similar process may be occurring in our universe. Is there a massive, collapsed star (black hole) at the centre of our galaxy, gradually pulling all matter into its gigantic maw?

Read all about it in Isaac Asimov's "The Collapsing Universe".

Other new books you may wish to read are Winston Graham's series of six novels on the Poldark family; James Herriot's new book "Vets May Fly"; Ruth Johnson's recycling venture "What to do Until the Carbage Man Arrives"; and Piers Paul Read's bestseller "Polonaise".

Canadian magazine publishing is expanding at a better rate, especially in the area of the news magazine. The library has two new ones on approval, "Report on Confederation" and "Opinion Canada". The library would appreciate your opinion of these issues.

For the children, the library is now receiving "Owl Magazine", a beautiful full colour Canadian publication loaded with stories, science articles and games.

The senior citizens' show last Friday was very well attended and enjoyed by all. The next one will offer a Christmas program on Dec. 16.

Property standards by-law not for Deseronto's dogs

Dogs aren't mentioned in Deseronto's property standards by-law, Jack McEwen was told when he raised the question of dogs running at large, during the public meeting on the by-law, Thursday. Mr. McEwen was complaining about a dog which had bitten him.

Deseronto has a dog by-law, Mayor John Neal told him, and asked him if he had complained.

"There's no point in complaining," someone commented.

Councillor Lyndon Thomlinson is going to look into the complaint.

Asked later about the stray dog situation, Carman Milligan, clerk-treasurer said, "The dog catcher is on a contract basis, with 20-24 hours of patrol a week. He can't be home whatever the hour is."

This year to date some 70 stray dogs have been picked up in Deseronto and taken to the pound at Napanee, with Deseronto paying a $22-fee for each dog. If the dog is later claimed and a fine paid, the fine is credited to Deseronto.

Minor Hockey Report

Midgets

Last week was a bad one for the Deseronto OMHA Midgets.

On Tuesday, November 15 at North Frontenac arena, the boys came from behind 3 times, but ended up losing the game by an 8 to 3 score to Godfrey.

Goals for Deseronto went to Ronnie Van Vlack with 2, the first assisted by Peter Morris and the second by Lenard Farrell, and John Farrell picked up the third goal assisted by Ronnie Van Vlack and Lenard Farrell.

Deseronto lost the services of Doug Campbell for one game due to a match penalty assessed after the game was over.

Doug Campbell's match penalty caused him to miss Thursday's game against Tamworth at Deseronto arena. When Deseronto lost Cory Vick in the early part of the third period because of a knee injury, the Deseronto team was short two defencemen and Tamworth was quick to see the advantage.

Deseronto had a 4 to 2 lead, but in 1 minute and 50 seconds, Tamworth poked three goals past netminder Eric Maracle to win the game 5 to 4.

Deseronto goals went to John Farrell with 2, and Les Punched and Tom Thompson with one each. Assists went to Cory Vick, Kevin Brant, John Farrell, Ronnie Van Vlack and Lenard Farrell.

The Midgets take to the road again on Tuesday night for a game against Wellington. They return for a game on Thursday night when they will host the Picton team.

Pee Wee

The High Flying Legion Pee Wees played against Belleville in Deseronto on Saturday, November 19 in the Deseronto arena.

Deseronto goals were scored by, Doug McMechan with 5, Chris Brant, 3; Todd John, 4; and Bill McMechan, Tim Murphy and Gary Thompson with 1 each.

The team's winning streak held for their game against Napanee on Sunday, November 20 at Napanee. The final score for the game was Deseronto 8 Napanee 2.

Scoring for Deseronto were Chris Brant with 4, Bill McMechan, 3 and Doug McMechan with 1.

The Pee Wee's next game will be on Saturday November 26, when they meet the Dick Ellis team in Belleville. After this game they are slated to meet Tamworth at home in Deseronto on Saturday, December 3.

Novice

Tim Smart scored 6 goals and 4 assist while Scott Davis connected with 4 goals and 6 assists, to lead the Police and Fire team to a 13 to 1 win over Smith and Mitchell in Novice action at Deseronto arena on Saturday. Smart also had a seventh goal disallowed because of an offside call.

In five games, Davis has collected 14 goals, while Smart has cashed in on 10 in two games.

Also scoring for Police and Fire were Mark Kimmitt with 2 and Marcel Maracle with one. The single goal for Smith and Mitchell was scored by Chris Godfrey.

Everyone was having a wonderful time at the Deseronto Police Association 'Elvis Presley Night'. About 170 youngsters turned up, despite the miserable weather. The Association is planning their annual Christmas Party for Dec. 18, to be held at the Arlington Hotel Lounge, instead of the arena because of the large crowd expected to attend. There'll be a party for kids 12 and younger in the afternoon and, for the older ones from 7:30 until midnight.

Think it's cold here? Life in the Arctic is colder — and more expensive.

How would you like to face an oil bill of $3,000 a year to heat your house?

That's what it can cost a householder up in the Arctic, new Quinte residents, Don and Lorrie Miller report.

"Up in Baker Lake, we got storms up to 60 to 70 miles an hour in a temperature of 40 below zero F.," Don Miller said. "Our house was winterized to southern Canadian winter standards and would have been adequate here. But up there, the furnace went 365 days of the year."

The Millers went through about 3,000 gallons of oil a year, at about $1 a gallon. They cooked with it as well as using it for home heating.

Even in July, there was ice on Baker Lake. July 1 was the day for the annual celebration of the ice breakup, but the ice didn't usually go until about the 15th. So the July 1 celebration included dog sled racing, ice fishing competitions, a type of hockey with brooms and a volleyball, and a dance at night.

Don Miller enjoyed fishing for trout and char during his eight years in the arctic.

"There aren't many dog teams now," they said. "Only about a dozen teams left for a population of about 900 Eskimos."

"The majority have skidoos but the Government and Game and Fisheries

Zieman answers Mayor's criticism

"I was deeply offended at statements made at the last Council meeting concerning the by-laws committee," Councillor Zieman told Mayor John Neal at Monday night's meeting of Deseronto Town Council.

"I'm not one who can't take criticism, but I would like it very much if someone would give us terms of reference."

At the previous meeting, Mayor Neal told Councillor Zieman that he had been given a job to do and hadn't done it. He mentioned that the taxi by-law had not been brought in yet and which referred the committee to Rule 37 which stated what they were charged to do.

"I've read Rule 37 over half a dozen times and I can't see anything in that rule that gives me terms of reference," Councillor Zieman said.

There was a long silence while the Mayor looked through the rules.

Concerning the taxi by-law, Councillor Zieman said, "We handled 14 items this year, many of them controversial. To my knowledge, no one in Council asked us to look into taxi legislation. It wasn't discussed by council."

"After I, and the committee, had tried to do our best, that statement at the last council meeting hit deep," he said.

Mayor Neal commented, "I think you are doing a good job."

"I wish you had said that before," Councillor Zieman retorted.

Boycott Canada US tourists urged

"If the Americans boycott you, you're in trouble," Mrs. W.J. McDonald of the Flamingo Trailer Park near Deseronto is worried.

"The number of American tourists is falling off. Gas and food prices in Canada are holding people back. And now this...a boycott is all we need," she said.

She was referring to a boycott appeal she received from California last Friday.

It was a copy of a complaint from people in New Hampshire whose truck, trailer and their contents were seized by the RCMP in New Brunswick this summer. They had to pay a $8,599.18 double-duty custom tax before they had a right of appeal against the charge laid under Section 205 of the Customs Act.

This is the letter she received from California.

Enclosed are photostats of seizure documents.

Our truck, trailer, and their contents were seized this year in Nova Scotia, Canada, under a law that states if your trailer is your home, you are domiciled in Canada which is illegal and your property can be seized. Our New Hampshire registered equipment was seized under this law even though we were camped in a government tourist park with a two-week limit.

Can you tell me why the first snowfall allus seems to bring out every danged fool on wheels? I ain't never figured that one out. You'd reckon us Canadians, born and bred in this here frigid climate, would have gotten used to her by now, and learned how to cope.

But it ain't so. First snow every winter gets drivers slipping and a sliding all over the road, as if they ain't never seen the stuff before.

Another thing the snow brings is them danged snowgobles. I seen them out already, scooting around on two inches of snow, making more racket than my old stable cleaner when the chain come off.

Now I hears that they've put up the road tax on big cars on account of they burns too much gas. Seems to me that if'n they was to do the same with them snowgobles, they'd save a lot as well, and folks like me could enjoy the winter in peace an quiet.

More jobs for this area — Taylor

Ontario Government Business Incentives and mortgage loans, totalling more than $583,000, have been granted to two firms which will provide from 30 to 35 jobs in Picton and 18 to 25 jobs in Richmond, Prince Edward-Lennox MPP, Hon. James Taylor, cited these job opportunities in reporting the Eastern Ontario Development Corporation Loans.

An $83,250 EODC loan has been awarded Hunt and Moscrop Canada Ltd. whose subsidiary, Canada Fans Ltd. will manufacture a large range of industrial and commercial fans and blowers in the Loch Sloy Industrial Park.

Canada Fans will employ between 30 and 35 people initially at the Loch Sloy Plant.

A business incentive loan of $389,250, and an industrial mortgage loan of $117,720 have been made to Kelwood Industries Inc., Mr. Taylor said. It is a new company which is locating in Richmond Industrial Park. The company is buying 2.5 acres to erect a 16,500 square foot plant. They will make interior and exterior mouldings and PVC foam siding for residential and commercial application.

They expect to employ 18 in the first year with subsequent increase to 25.

EDITORIAL

When asked by a leading U.S. newsmagazine if America could afford to keep bailing its farmers out of economic difficulty, U.S. Agriculture Secretary Bergland replied, in part, 'A hungry world cannot be fed by a bankrupt agriculture, here or abroad. We need to keep a strong, sound agricultural economy going.'

Unfortunately, this is one point that very few consumers are able to appreciate - particularly those consumers who argue that if Australia has a beef surplus Canadians should be able to gorge themselves on cheap beef until the cupboard is bare.

The cold, hard reality of the situation is that - once the Australian cupboard is bare - the unique beef breeding herd that has been built up in the country through years of research and investment will also be gone; as will most of the grazing land needed to support it.

What these people fail to realize is that the low cost of food in this country permits them to spend a larger proportion of their disposable income on recreation and leisure activities. In fact, U.S. consumers now spend more of their disposable income on automobile payments than on food, for the first time in history - and with higher automobile prices in Canada and lower food costs, the situation is probably much the same here.

They also fail to realize that the agricultural industry generates a lion's share of Canada's exports and jobs. In fact, the beef industry 'from the farm to the consumer' - rated as one of the largest employers and one of the most valuable economic multipliers in Canadian industry.

Without a strong agricultural base to support the high living standards that Canadian consumers enjoy, this country would find itself with a staggering trade imbalance and an even weaker dollar on international money markets - adding to our rate of inflation.

In fact, it goes without saying that our agricultural industry is perhaps the single most important economic and social factor affecting the well being of Canadians generally.

It also goes without saying that Canada's agricultural exports not only benefit Canadians by contributing new dollars to the economy, they are vital in a hungry world where the population is expected to double again within the next 35 years.

To argue that Canada's borders should be thrown open to countries looking for garbage cans in which to dump their excess agricultural produce, simply because Canadian consumers would benefit from short-term supplies of cheap food, is dangerously shortsighted.

Conversely, to argue that Canadian farmers should be insulated from international markets by unequitable tariffs, and that consumers should be forced to pay for the inefficiencies of a non-competitive industry, is just as dangerous.

Canada's agricultural industry needs, and deserves a reasonable level of protection from cheap, outside imports if the industry is to be preserved. This fact is generally recognized, even by the most ardent free trader.

The problem, however, is to convince the carpenter whose job is protected by a union; or a lawyer whose job is protected by a bar association; or a garment manufacturer whose industry is protected by import duties, that farmers deserve at least the same sort of protection they receive.

As Ralph Barichello, president of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, said recently, 'If jobs in this country were allowed to go to the lowest bidder, regardless of international boundaries, most of us would be out of work.'

Mr. Barichello's comment is one that should be kept in mind by consumers who believe farmers should be left to their own devices to compete against the surplus commodities of another country, while their job is kept secure from the world's most abundant surplus commodity - cheap labour.

Articles from 1840's found in Northport walls

Advertising wasn't "hard sell" back in the 1840's when D. and R. MacDonald were respectfully inviting the people in and around Demorestville to inspect their wares.

Of course they didn't have any supermarkets to compete with, nor mass media approach by product producers.

The ad pictured on page one was found by Ann Frappe of Northport when she pulled down one of the walls in her living room to "find out where the draft was coming from" during the weekend's blustery weather.

She discovered a big hole in the outside wall where two parts of the original buildings had been pulled together.

"We knew the house was at least 140 years old," she said, "and now we have proof that it is even older."

The paper, and other articles, had fallen down through the gap between the walls from the attic, which has now been refinished as a beautiful beamed bedroom.

The adve rtisement had obviously been used as a home by rats, at some time, as it was chewed up in places.

It was not the only find between the walls.

There was mute evidence that people back in those days were pretty self-sufficient and looked after many of their own basic needs.

She found an assortment of handmade leather shoes. The soles, and even the heels, were stitched and there were no nails in the shoes.

There were also handmade leather gloves, repaired with other pieces of leather.

Another find was a child's cotton blouse, with a pointed front to come down over the stomach. Originally a green and red plaid, it had been patched over and over again.

"All the pieces of clothing I found were lined with cotton," she said. "And there was no machine stitching on any of them. Whoever made them wasn't rich. Everything was utilitarian."

To get at the hole in the wall, Mrs. Frappe had to remove the wide panelling in her living room which, she said, was "relatively new". It had been painted with buttermilk paint. The buttermilk was used instead of oil for making paint many years ago. Under the buttermilk panelling was lath.

Inflation isn't someone else's problem. Neither is fighting it.

The inflation rate in Canada has improved over the past couple of years, thanks to the efforts of Canadians who recognized the dangers of spiralling prices and wages. The moderation has helped and it's a good thing it happened, as we all know from the fears we were experiencing back in 1974-75. We're doing better, but we can't be satisfied. Inflation still exists and it hurts. Ask the poor, the pensioners, the Canadians who have worked hard for years to build up some retirement savings—they know better than anyone how truly critical this problem can be.

A serious part of the overall problem is the popular belief that the rate of inflation can't be influenced by individuals. That's just not true.

Inflation exists as a result of all our actions, including government, labour, business, and yes—individuals.

We have to work together in a co-operative effort to fight inflation. The more we know about it, the better we can handle it.

Learn more about inflation, why it happens, what it is, and what you can do to fight it, send for "Kick the Inflation Habit." You'll find out how inflation steals jobs in a section that helps us understand how employment suffers by inflation; that there's no free lunch because whatever we get, we pay for, whether it's government services or "free" samples; and it will tell you about the vital business of budgeting and living within one's means.

"Kick the Inflation Habit" also discusses smart shopping, wise use of credit, the importance of arming yourself with information—all things that not only fight inflation, they make it hurt a little less. "Kick the Inflation Habit"...now deaths a winter when skidoos get into trouble."

Don and Lorrie Miller spent eight years in the Arctic. They had previously lived in Hamilton, Georgetown and North Bay.

"We arrived in the Arctic on the second of January 1969. When we got here, we had to crawl up snowbanks on our hands and knees to get into the house," Don recalls.

"The first winter was rugged. We didn't know how to dress or how to walk in the wind. My wife bundled up so much to go to the Hudson Bay store that, when she slipped and fell down, all she could do was laugh and say, 'I can't get up.'"

But they were luckier the last two winters. When this area was blanketed by last winter's big blizzard, the Arctic was having one of the mildest winters on record, and the snow was melting there while Quinte was snowbound.

Oil wasn't the only expensive item up north. The Millers got their basic food supplies once a year, when they could be brought in by ship, about the middle of August. Temperatures in the mid-summer average about 60 degrees F.

These staples were supplemented by fresh foods flown in from Churchill to the Hudson Bay store.

"Fresh food was hard to get and expensive," they said. "A dozen medium-sized eggs cost $2.25 and a loaf of bread was $1.25."

When they first went to the Arctic, the Eskimos were living in small wooden houses, with only one room. This type of housing is being phased out and larger homes are in use now.

"The Eskimos used to be nomads," Don pointed out. "The settlements were formed mainly to educate the children. Now the herds are going and there is little work for the Eskimos, except for some labour used in the summer.

"The majority of the settlement is on welfare but a few men still go out and hunt caribou and fish. They get mainly lake trout or char and, in the winter, they net a large white fish which is coarse and used for dog food."

All of the Eskimos under 30 years of age speak English fluently. The Millers tried to learn the Eskimo language but didn't master it, and it's no wonder they found it difficult when you try to pronounce this one...the Eskimo name for Baker Lake...Qammanituaq, which means water between two rivers that runs into salt water.

"The Eskimos are basically a very happy people, and they laugh easily," Lorrie Miller said. "They like visiting neighbours and everyone goes to the dances and weddings. Parents of the bride and groom throw handfuls of candies and other treats on the dance floor and everyone scrambles for them."

"They are gradually losing their crafts, although some are still making their own footwear from caribou skins. A few of the women in Baker Lake are very proficient in tapestry work, using duflie cloth or other similar materials, and the work is mostly applique type of design."

What did they think of visiting government officials, writers, politicians? "We called them weekend wonders. They used to bug us no end. They'd come and spend a weekend and go home as authorities on the Arctic."

Although not a young couple, they have five grown children and 14 grandchildren. The Millers went north as Pioneers for the Baha'i Faith, which originated in Persia in 1844 and now is known and has followers all around the world.

"We did not go north as missionaries for the faith. 'We don't proselytize,' they clarified. 'People hear about it and do their own investigation. No one ever says, why don't you join?'

But their home had two rooms at the back which were meeting places for ping pong, checkers, films and other community activities.

It was a meeting place for young people, in particular, and their program was called "windows on the World."

Don had been a steelworker, an electronic researcher and a maintenance mechanic, in his time. In the north, he did some maintenance work at the school and, because he had previous experience in firefighting, he organized a fire fighting department in each of the three northland communities in which they lived, Baker Lake, Yellowknife, and Frobisher Bay, and trained the volunteers.

Don and Lorrie Miller with some of the soapstone carvings they brought back from the Arctic. The three owls were carved by an Eskimo whose work is on display in the National Gallery.

The Millers are now living on the Tyendinaga Reserve. They have a lot of slides and interesting information about the north which they would be happy to show to any group which would like to see them.

Deseronto population down by 52

Deseronto has lost 52 people in the past year. Totals from the census show a population of 1,746, compared with 1,800 last year.

"Per capita grants are based on population, so grants will go down a bit," Carman Milligan, clerk-treasurer, pointed out at Monday night's council meeting. "All urban municipalities seem to be down a little bit."

Other figures from the census: males and females just about even out, 876 males to 872 females.

Off duty police officer, Norm Clark, Emcee, assisted by Bud Meeks, operated the new stereo system at the Police Association's Dance Friday night. The stereo was purchased by the Association to help produce a more realistic sound for the youngsters attending. Rick Dennis helped with the awarding of prizes, consisting of Elvis Albums, singles and posters.

The same RCMP officer seized, levied, and collected the fine. There was no right of appeal until the fine was paid.

We are not asking you to take sides; but to inquire of the Canadian authorities why they have a law which is nothing more or less than legalized hijacking. If their answer is satisfactory, there will be no need of informing your club members. Otherwise future travelers in Canada should be aware of this law which could cost them their trailer home or a huge fine.

This law is anti-American, anti-tourist and answers are in order.

Mrs. McDonald thinks the boycott appeal was sent to all members of the Good Sam Club, which she and her husband belong to. "It's a big club and has a lot of members all over the States and Canada," she said.

She has sent a copy of the letter to Tourism's Claude Bennett, to Joe Clark, Federal Conservative leader, and to Charlie Greenwell of CJOH. Her son in Toronto, who is affiliated with CHUM radio, has also been alerted and asked to check into the circumstances.

She has acknowledged receipt of the letter and has told the senders what action she has taken.

A and P did look for alternatives, Picton real estate man says

One of the points brought up by protesters at the Ontario Municipal Board hearing into the rezoning for the A and P store in Picton was, "Have you looked for alternative sites?"

"They did look for alternatives," Sam Gentile, Picton real estate man, told the Scanner. "And they did try to expand at their present location, but it was impossible to acquire the properties on Main Street they would need."

"The owner of the property between what is now Hannigan Hamburger and the Public Utilities Commission was approached but it was impossible to acquire the properties."

The Public Utilities were amenable to relinquishing their present 11-foot right-of-way to Elizabeth Street, subject to the granting of an alternative right-of-way to Elizabeth Street.

"There was no other suitable place zoned commercial which was big enough for A and P to go," Mr. Gentile said.

Deseronto Council Briefs

• Much to-do about nothing, was Councillor David Martin's comment concerning changing the date of municipal elections.

Deputy Reeve Bernard Johnston thought an earlier date was a good idea. "It gives you a month to get your feet on the ground if a new council starts in December."

Deseronto Council has sent a letter to the Provincial Government requesting that the Election Act remain the same except for holding the election the first Monday in December.

• A request from P. Stone, to park a trailer on the Edmon Street parking lot during the winter months, was ok'ed on a one-year term with the town not responsible for later or damage. Mr. Stone lives in the Senior Citizen Apartments and is the only one there with a trailer.

• Councillor Fletcher Vick reported that the town hall windows have all been done.

• The Ministry of Housing has requested Council to fill out some forms for the annual housing review. "The town clerk and myself have dug into facts and answered some questions but others call for prediction, crystal ball gazing...and we'll need a meeting to discuss this," Councillor Allan Blayney reported. A meeting is to be arranged.

• Some taxes have been changed to conform with Section 36 A of the Municipal Act. For example, a reduction of taxes where a business has gone out of business. All reductions have been accepted by the Assessment Office, Council was informed.

• Reeve Roger Cole will be attending a meeting of the Hastings County Board of Education to discuss instalment payments of tax requisitions. A new agreement has to be set up. Mayor John Neal will also try to attend.

• A letter was received from the Ministry of the Environment notifying Council that the commencement date for the Provincial Water Works Project is January 1, 1978.

"They have to let us know when they are starting, but we will probably not be ready to operate by Jan. 1," Carman Milligan, town clerk, said. No action was taken at Monday night's council meeting.

• Recommendations concerning street lighting at the corner of Green and Dundas Streets and in the Park Street - Pearl Street area were turned over to the property committee. Reeve Roger Cole said, "There have to be some improvements and the PUC knows better than I what has to be done."

Deseronto forms Business Association

Mike Kouri of George A. Grant Insurance, has been named chairman of Deseronto and District Business Association. Vice-chairman is Bill Lazarakos of United Restaurant, and secretary-treasurer is Frank Burch of Mohawk Bay Trailer Park and Tennis Club.

Objectives for the new association are to attempt to re-establish a strong business section, to maintain a clean, attractive, well signed business district and co-operate with all business establishments within the district of Deseronto for the benefit of consumers and each business.

Deseronto Councillor A. Blayney is liaison to Council for the association.

Members and Guests Welcome

Skating enthusiastically to raise money for a new Recreation Bus kept this group warm Saturday night. Thirty skaters got into the race to try and complete 100 laps round the rink.

Over $3,000 already from skating pledges

One of the questions in the survey done last summer by Deseronto Recreation Committee was "Would you be in favour of and support a fundraising drive to replace the Recreation Bus which requires major repairs or replacements?" The bus is used by civic groups, service clubs and recreation groups.

Ninety-two percent of those surveyed said yes and the success of the Skatethon, held Saturday at the arena, showed that the people of Deseronto meant what they said.

In the Skatethon, participants were backed by pledges for a sum of money for each lap they completed. Aim was to finish 100 laps.

"We've had about $3,200 to date from the Skatethon," Jack Layfield, recreation director, reports. "We are expecting more to come in and hoping it may go as high as $4,000."

A new bus will cost about $14,000 and half of that amount will have to be raised locally. An application has already been made for a Wintario Grant to cover the other 50 % of the cost.

Mrs. Helen Tunncliffe works on clothespin novelties for the Deseronto United Church Christmas Bazaar.

Lots of hobbies keep her busy

There are lot of active people who are not just sitting around twiddling their thumbs because they have reached the senior citizen age group, and Mrs. Helen Tunncliffe of Edmon Street, Deseronto, is one of the most active.

An ardent hobbyist, she has been busy lately making clothespin articles for the annual United Church Christmas bazaar, which was held on Saturday.

Using baby food bottles for a base, she has been gluing halves of clothespins and making old fashioned ells which were used as centrepieces for the tables and later sold. Halves of clothespins have also been made into tiny dolls' rocking chairs.

She says she has had a lot of help from neighbours in the Senior Citizen Apartments. The cushions on the rockers were made by Mrs. Jennie McQueen and Mrs. Lottie Anderson has contributed her time and effort too.

"All my friends have been donating clothespins for this project," she said. "I got the pattern from my niece and it's the first year I've tried them."

Mrs. Tunncliffe's apartment is full of samples of her hobby handicrafts. One particularly interesting item is a wall clock with an embroidered face.

She is also an ardent knitter and has three or four sweaters on the go for grandchildren and great grandchildren.

"You wouldn't be a grandmother if you didn't knit for them, would you," she said.

Another activity she still enjoys is playing the organ. She has lived in Deseronto for most of her life and played the organ in the United Church for seven years. Now she has a small organ in her apartment and sometimes holds singings for the other apartment residents.

So many came the last time that some of them had to stay out in the hall.

She is also well known to most people in town because she was librarian for 23 years. "We used to open the library for a part of every day," she recalls, but it got to be a bit too much for her.

She has gotten around yet to all the things she'd like to do.

"I thought I'd like to take oil painting at night school," she said, "but I just don't have enough time."

library notes

The Christmas season has long since begun for those people who give handcrafted gifts. Come and see the first phase of the library's Christmas display. Christmas craft and story books are now exhibited in the front window.

During those moments that you devote to relaxation during the holiday season, why not read one of the library's new arrivals. Morley Callaghan's "Close to the Sun Again," is in; so is Betty Rollin's "First You Cry," which concerns the author's battle with cancer.

Recollecting the richness of Canadians' rural past and their love of the land is Allan Anderson's "Remembering the Farm". Some of the anecdotes will make you laugh, some will make you cry, and some will make you wish for another place and time.

Try to relax through reading. Savour this festive time of year through books and films.

Minor Hockey Report

Last week was a much better one for the Deseronto Midgets, with the boys picking up 3 of a possible 4 points. This gives the Midgets 7 points out of a possible 16.

On November 22, the team travelled to Wellington to play. After taking a 5 to 3 lead early in the third period, Deseronto again went into their "third period slump" and just got settled down again in time to salvage a 5-5 tie. Steve Blewett was back in nets after being off since the 22nd of October with a broken finger, and put up a terrific battle for the locals. Leonard Farrell led the way for Deseronto, picking up 3 goals as well as one assist. Brother John Farrell was not far behind, with 2 goals and 2 assists. Other Deseronto Point getters were Dale Forrestell, Kevin Brant and Peter Morris, all with an assist.

On the 24th, Deseronto hosted the Pictou Midgets for the first time this year. On one previous meeting in Pictou, Deseronto had been well treated and were allowed to score almost whenever they wished. Luckily, on Thursday night, the Deseronto team did not feel like playing the polite host, and were able to outscore their opposition by 11 to one. Eric Maracle came within 33 seconds of recording the team's first shut out.

Deseronto goals went to Ray McGuinness and Les Punchard with 3 each, John Farrell and Ronnie VanVlack with 2 each, and Dale Forrestell finally scoring his first after being blanked all season.

There were 15 assists handed out in the game for Deseronto, with John Farrell getting 3, Tom Thompson, Leonard Farrell and Cory Vick each getting 2, and one each going to Tom Green, Ray McGuinness, Kevin Brant, Ronnie VanVlack, Rob O'Brien and Tim Brant. Cory Vick returned tonight after missing one game due to a knee injury, but was lost to the team when he was ousted from the game and given a misconduct penalty with only one minute and 52 seconds remaining on the clock.

Only one game for the Sutcliffe-Reid Midgets next week. It's at home against Godfrey on Thursday, Dec. 1, and local fans are urged to attend. On our one trip to Godfrey this year, the Godfrey Midgets had the house almost sold out. Let's show them we can support our team too.
